Inflation grows

WASHINGTON (AP) — Inflation accelerated in October as sharply higher grocery prices pushed the cost of living up seven-tenths of one per cent, the government said today.

Last month's price increase was the third highest this year and followed increases of only two-tenths of a per cent in August and five-tenths of a per cent in September, the Labor Department said.

Inflation had cooled earlier this year, but spurted briefly during June and July before easing in late summer. Economists, both in and out of government, are concerned that the new acceleration of inflation could choke off consumer buying power and slow the recovery from recession.

Consumer prices over the past 12 months were up 7.6 per cent, the smallest over-the-year increase since the 12-month period ending September, 1973, when they were up 7.4 per cent.

Higher food prices led the October increase, but there also were substantial price gains for new cars, clothing, fuel oil, mortgage interest rates and auto insurance, the government said.

The consumer price index in October stood at 164.6 of the 1967 average of 100, meaning it cost $164.60 to buy the same goods and services that cost $100 eight years ago.

Prices so far this year have increased 5.9 per cent.

At the grocery counter, where prices fell slightly in September, sharp increases for meats, dairy products and coffee pushed prices up 1.5 per cent last month. It was the sharpest jump since a 1.7 per cent increase last July.

However, there were substantial savings on poultry and eggs. Fresh fruit prices dropped sharply for the third straight month, while cereal and bakery products continued their decline that began earlier this year. Sugar prices also were down after increases over the previous two months.

Over-all food costs, including restaurant meals, were up 1.3 per cent following September's rise of only one-tenth of a per cent.

Goods other than food increased in price by three-tenths of a per cent in October, the same as in September. Prices of services rose six-tenths of a per cent largely because of increases for mortgage rates, medical care and rent.

In a separate report, the Labor Department said the buying power of worker's paychecks was unchanged over the month. However, over the year, real earnings were up 1.9 per cent, thanks to the reduction in federal income taxes which took effect last May.

The rise in the non-food price index of three-tenths of one per cent compared with average monthly increases of about six-tenths of a per cent in the first eight months of the year.

In October, fuel oil and coal prices rose 1.8 per cent, one of the sharpest increases this year. Gasoline and motor oil prices declined slightly, but not as much as usual in October and as a result were still up nine-tenths of a per cent.

Prices for new 1976 cars were up 2.7 per cent. However, they normally rise at this time of the year, and the new car index declined one-tenth of a per cent after seasonal adjustment.

Franco and his successor

Spain mourns Franco

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Spain today began 30 days of national mourning for Generalissimo Francisco Franco, Western Europe's last surviving dictator, who died early today after a month-long battle for life.

Heads of other West European governments expressed the hope that the death of the man who had ruled Spain with an iron hand for 36 years would mean the rebirth of democracy in his country. But his reactionary supporters were already gearing up for a determined fight against the advocates of a new and liberal Spain.

The government announced that Franco would be given a state funeral on Sunday and that the successor he designated, Prince Juan Carlos de Borbon, would be installed on Saturday as Spain's first king in 44 years.

The 37-year-old prince, who has been acting chief of state since Oct. 30, is a grandson of King Alfonso XIII and was educated and trained under Franco's supervision from the age of 11. The dictator designated him his successor in 1969, but many Spaniards expect him to try to move the political system toward democracy.

Juan Carlos will take the name King Juan Carlos I since his father, Don Juan, the Count of Barcelona, has refused to renounce his own prior claim to the throne.

Franco's 26-man medical team in a final bulletin said the generalissimo's condition deteriorated throughout the night until he suffered "irreversible heart arrest" at 5:25 a.m. Informed sources said his only child, his daughter Carmen, was at his side with four of his grandchildren.

Franco's wife of 52 years had returned home, exhausted by her long death watch.

Although the doctors' bulletin gave the cause of death as heart failure, they listed nine ailments from which Franco was suffering in his final illness. They were Parkinson's disease, which he had for several years; coronary disease, acute digestive ulcers with massive repeated hemorrhaging, bacterial peritonitis, acute renal (kidney) failure, thrombophlebitis, bilateral bronchial pneumonia, endotoxic shock and heart arrest.

The 5-foot-3-inch generalissimo died just two weeks before his 83rd birthday.

He had been ill since Oct. 17 and had suffered repeated heart attacks, had undergone three major abdominal operations and for days had been kept alive by massive blood transfusions, a respirator, an artificial kidney machine and other mechanical devices as well as his own indomitable will to live.

Trial ends in hung jury

CHARLESTON — A Circuit Court trial Wednesday for Flint Pritchett, 47, of rural Matthews on a felonious assault charge resulted in a hung jury at 3 a.m. today.

The jury, impaneled about noon Wednesday to hear the case filed in connection with the Nov. 27, 1974, shooting assault on Donald Lee Hubbard of East Prairie, received the case about 11:30 p.m.

Judge Marshall Craig summoned the jury back into the courtroom about 2:10 a.m. to inquire if the panel would be able to reach a verdict if given additional time to deliberate. Some 20 minutes later, Judge Craig again recalled the jury of six men and six women and, after being informed it was very unlikely that a unanimous verdict could be reached, he declared a hung jury and dismissed the panel.

State witnesses called by Prosecuting Attorney Edward C. Graham included Hubbard, Deputy Sheriff Norris Grissom, Kenneth Hudson of East Prairie, Terry Ditto of rural Matthews and Steve and Charles McGill of Anniston.

The shooting incident, according to testimony, occurred about 8 a.m. Nov. 27, 1974 at Stanley Muffler Co., located on Highway 80 just west of East Prairie city limits.

Hubbard, president of the company, was struck by three bullets fired from a five-shot .38 - caliber revolver. One shot went through his left wrist, striking him in the chin. He was also shot once in the left shoulder and once in the right shoulder.

The state attempted to prove that one of the shoulder wounds was the result of a shot in the back. However, no medical evidence to this fact was introduced.

The shooting reportedly was the culmination of problems between the two men, who are brothers-in-law, over a period of about eight months which reportedly involved a dog that had made its home in the muffler plant.

Hubbard testified that he arrived at the plant shortly after 7 a.m. on Nov. 27, denied talking directly to Pritchett but said he heard Pritchett say something about shooting the dog. After the work bell sounded, Hubbard said he went into his office, handled his regular duties and instructed his bookkeeper to

Teen-ager charged with armed robbery

Jerry Lee Summers, 18, of 224 Young St., was charged today with the armed robbery of Art Ziegler, 217 Kennedy Drive, at 7:15 p.m. Wednesday outside Ziegler's Superette, 612 W. North St.

Police Detective Lt. Jack Patterson said Ziegler was approached by two men as he was getting into his truck outside the store. One of the two men stood in the shadows with a gun and demanded Ziegler's money.

The other man walked around the truck and grabbed a money bag containing an undisclosed amount of money. When Ziegler held onto the bag, the assailant knocked him to the ground and knocked off his glasses and hat. Ziegler was not hurt, but lay on the ground until the men fled.

Ziegler then went to the police station to report the robbery.

Lt. Anderson Walker and officers Willie Joe Harrington and Bob Bonner took Summers into custody at a house on Thompson Street about 11:45 p.m., and Patterson said some of the money taken in the robbery has been recovered.

Patterson added that police have no leads so far to help them identify the other man, but that they may have some soon. The criminal investigation division is still investigating the robbery, he said.

Floating museum

Hundreds of visitors boarded the Sergeant Floyd Wednesday at New Madrid to tour the floating museum of waterway history. Owned by the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, the old river towboat has been outfitted for the Bicentennial celebration. The story of the Corps of Engineers role in the development of the nation was presented through a series of multi-media shows and displays. The Floyd will tour the inland and gulf intracostal waterways until December 1976, presenting its free show to the general public.

Boon Park construction given Dexter priority

DEXTER — Development of the new seven- acre Boon Park, to be located north of the High School football field, and improvement of other city parks are now the main priorities of the Park Board, president Glenn Ayers said Thursday.

Work on West City Park has already started. Plans for that park called for the removal of a road on the north edge of the park to provide more room for recreational activities and to build a pavilion near where the road had been.

The road has already been eliminated, Ayers said, and the new pavilion is expected to be built during the winter for use next spring and summer.

Proposed work on Boon Park will be financed through a federal grant, if the money is approved. The state has approved $33,869 in funds, but Ayers said that final approval by the federal government is still necessary.

The funds received preliminary approval earlier this month by the State Inter-Agency Council for Outdoor Recreation in the Missouri Department of Natural Resources.

The money is part of $3.5 million in outdoor recreation assistance funds distributed throughut the state as part of Missouri's 1976 apportionment

Former Sikeston man killed

HATTISBURG, Miss. - Gene Lee Mills, 26, of Hattisburg, Miss., formerly of Sikeston, Mo., was killed at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday in a construction accident on the site of a power plant at Purvis, about 10 miles south of Hattisburg.

Mills, a civil engineer for the Burns- McDonnell Engineering Co. based in Kansas City, Mo., was struck by a steel beam which fell, hitting and killing him.

He was married to the former Carol Perry of Canalou, who survives.

Other surivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rolla D. Mills of Centralia, Kan.; and three brothers, Allan of North Dakota and Earl and Lyle of Centralia, Kan.

Friends may call after 3 p.m. today at the Bill O'Guinn Funeral Home in Sikeston.

Services are scheduled at 2 p.m. Friday at the First Assembly of God Church in Sikeston with the Rev. Loren Wooten officiating.

Burial will follow at Centralia, Kan.

Rice ordered to stand trial in February

BLOOMFIELD — After pleading not guilty during Circuit Court proceedings Wednesday, Carl Wayne Rice, 35, of Dexter was ordered to stand trial Feb. 3, 1976 on a charge of manslaughter.

Rice is charged with the July 7 hit- and- run death of Sharon Bond, 20, of Sikeston.

The highway patrol reported that the fatality occurred when a car struck the back of a motorcycle driven by Wesley Bond, 26, of Sikeston on Highway 60 near Dexter. Mrs. Bond was a passengenr on the motorcycle.

The driver of the car fled the scene. Rice later turned himself over to Stoddard County authorities.

Reagan finally makes it official

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Ronald Reagan announced his candidacy for the White House today, challenging President Ford and a Washington "buddy system" he blamed for major national woes.

"I believe my candidacy will be healthy for the nation and my party," the conservative Californian and former actor said as he began the actie phase of his effort to wrest the White House from a Republican President.

Ford aides and allies contend the Reagan challenge could divide the GOP and thus help the Democrats in the end.

Reagan keynoted his personal campaign with a slap at the Washington establishment. While he didn't say so directly, he clearly included Ford.

The former two-term governor of California ticked off his complaints: high rates of inflation, unemployment and interest; big government he called coercive, meddlesome and ineffective; a diminished U.S. defense posture; detente with the Soviet Union, which he said is too one-sided.

"In my opinion, the root of these problems lies right here — in Washington, D.C.," Reagan said in a prepared declaration of candidacy. "Our nation's capital has become the seat of a 'buddy' system that functions for its own benefit — increasingly insensitive to the needs of the American worker who supports it with his taxes.

"Today it is difficult to find leaders who are independent of the forces that have brought us our problems — the Congress, the bureaucracy, the lobbyists, big business and big labor," Reagan said.

"If America is to survive and go forward this must change," he said. "It will only change when the American people vote for a leadership that listens to them, relies on them and seeks to return government to them. We need a government that is confident not of what it can do but of what the people can do."

Reagan cited his years as governor of California as evidence that he can manage government more efficiently. "We found that fiscal responsibility is possible, that the welfare rolls can come down, that social problems can be met below the federal level," Reagan said.

Republican rebuttal wasn't long in coming.

Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois had a reply to Reagan ready in advance, saying the former governor would lead the GOP to the kind of election defeat the Democrats suffered in 1972 with Sen. George McGovern.

"Indeed, I believe a Reagan nomination and the crushing defeat likely to follow could signal the beginning of the end for our party as an effective force in American political life," Percy said.

Percy, who explored presidential candidacy himself before Ford succeeded to the White House, said he hopes the President will not try to match Reagan's rhetoric or policies. "If the President wins the nomination by out-Reaganing Reagan, it will cost him the election, and that will serve neither our party nor his own conservative philosophy," Percy said.

Reagan was following up his announcement with a quick two-day campaign swing to four early primary states — Florida, New Hampshire, North Carolina and Illinois.

Reagan, an activist liberal Democrat in his early Hollywood days, is making his second bid for the Republican presidential nomination. The first, at the GOP convention in 1968, was brief and futile against the commanding strength of Richard M. Nixon.

But Reagan was the only GOP rival who worried Nixon in that campaign, testament to the clout of conservatives in a GOP National Convention.

This time, Reagan, now 64, has had a campaign committee at work for five months, and his insistence that he had not made up his mind about candidacy didn't fool the politicians.

At the Ford campaign committee and at the White House there were early signals of an effort to counter the Reagan threat.

One of the first political moves the Ford team made was to sign up leading figures in the California GOP, many of them old Reagan allies, apparently in hopes that would dissuade the challenger.

On the road, Ford stressed his own conservative credentials.

Indeed, it was opposition of conservatives, who could be mobilized only by Reagan, that led Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller to rule himself off a 1976 Ford ticket, to end what he called party squabbling.

WHICH "7 OR 9" SENATE OFFICES?

Despite the belated outcries of a growing number of Congressmen, the American people are still waiting for some answers to persistent reports of Russian infiltration of Capitol Hill offices.

The charge first surfaced publicly in a recent television program featuring Sen. Barry Goldwater. When his alarming allegation failed to raise a stir, the Senator repeated it on public television during an interview with Martin Agronsky.

Goldwater said his information came last February in a conversation with Vice President Rockefeller, who headed the commission which investigated the CIA. The Vice President explained to the Senator that "his committee has learned of instances where the offices of Senators had been infiltrated by Soviet agents," said Goldwater. When he later asked Rockefeller why the information wasn't in the report, said Goldwater, he was told, "I was requested not to publish it."

"As I recall it, the figure he used was either seven or nine offices where they had discovered infiltration, and they suspected a few committees," said Goldwater, who added that Soviet infiltrators on Capitol Hill are "working in offices, reporting, helping in the drafting of legislation, the writing of reports ... but I have no idea what offices they might be in..."

John Milliken, a press aide to Rockefeller, confirmed to a Washington reporter that the conversation took place, although he couldn't confirm the "seven or nine" figure.

It is well known that the Russian KGB has agents crawling out of the woodwork across America. Even so, one must still pause in amazement at the incredible public apathy shown to date over these serious charges. It is past time we demanded some answers from Washington.

According to the NR Bulletin, New York City totters even closer to the brink of default as a result of a decision of the state's highest court. It ruled that the legislature's order to two pension funds to buy $125 million of Big MAC bonds was unconstitutional. The amount is only a small part of a $2.5 billion emergency aid package, but the ruling and the continuing refusal by Stae Comptroller Arthur Levitt (the two pension plans' sole trustee) to invest voluntarily throw the whole scheme into doubt.

PANTRY PANIC
Eat, drink and be wary

"Gentlemen: I have recently read a story about a purple coloring which might cause cancer. If it does, I would appreciate your letting me know about it as soon as possible."

"Dear Mr. Secretary: What are potassium sorbate and monosodium phosphate? P.S. I am suspicious."

These are excerpts from two letters out of some 200,000 communications received by the Food and Drug Administration each year from Americans concerned about what is going into their food, and into their bodies, and who are baffled--and frightened--by the sometimes unpronounceable names of chemicals theyy find on food packages and containers. They are reprinted in a recently published book aptly named "Panic in the Pantry."

Co-authored by Elizabeth M. Whelan, Sc. D., and Frederick J. Stare, M.D., chairman of the department of nutrition at Harvard School of Public Health. "Panic in the Pantry" has been causing as much controversy as some of the food-scare stories it attempts to refute.

Certainly, it is going against the popular trend today to maintain that the that the food Americans eat are, on the whole, safe, wholesome and nutritious and that any dangers posed by much-criticized artificial additives are remote.

Concern over food is nothing new. In the 1940s, for example one book caused panic in a lot of pantries by linking milk drinking with cancer. But ever since the cranberries scare in the 1960s, Americans have been bombarded with a succession of claims or reports linking this or that food or pesticide or additive with this or that disease or disorder.

Yet little is said about the role of additives in drastically reducing the incidence of stomach cancer among Americans or the fact that improved nutrition has enabled more people to live to the ages where cancer or heart disease are threats.

All foods, the authors point out, are composed of chemicals, and it would be just as easy to whip up a scare over the "natural" hydrogen cyanide in lima beans as over cyclamates, if laboratory rats were fed the same massive doses that led the FDA to ban the artificial sweetener.

Drs. Whelan and Stare have little good to say about the Delaney Clause, which the FDA invoked in the case of cyclamates. That amendment to the Food and Drug Act states that no food additive shall be permitted in the food supply if it is shown to induce cancer in man or animal-regardless of the size of the dose or the length of time it was fed.

But too much of anything, even common table salt, can cause harm if ingersted in amounts exceeding that in the normal diet.

Fortunately, the cyclamates ban, which even the scientist whose research it was based on now thinks was probably unwarranted, may have had a beneficial result. The FDA seems to have adopted a more cautious approach to claims being made against such things as DES, a growth-promoting hormone fed to cattle (and also found in a wide variety of natural foods), the artificial coloring Red Dye No. 2 and nitrites, used to color meats and to prevent botulism.

"What concerns us most about the current panic over food additives," say the authors, "is that the facts about nutrition and health which have taken hundreds of years to accumulate are bening overlooked in favor of siolated, scientifically irresponsible-but well publicized-claims about alleged 'poisons' in our food."

Among the consequences of the panic, they say, are the "natural food craze" on which the public is spending about $1 billion a year, and the distraction of Americans from such real threats as cigarette smoking, too much saturated fat, lack of exercise and just plain overeating.

Whether or not many Americans will be persuaded by "Panic in the Pantry" and its admonition that, in moderation, we eat, drink and be wary of those who raise questions about the safety of our food, the book would seem to be a much needed counterbalance to the continuing flood of other books, articles and television programs which have made eating not an enjoyable but an anxiety-provoking activity.

CONSERVATION STILL KEY TO ENERGY CRISIS

With the effects of the latest 10 per cent hike in the price of crude oil decreed by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries yet to be felt at the gasoline pump, and amidst continued warnings of natural gas shortages in the event of a severe winter, it may be difficult to believe that what threatens the United States is not too little energy but too much.

According to one specialist in this field, however, forecasts of U.S. energy needs over the next 25 years have been placed much too high, and rapid expansion of energy production to meet those inflated forecasts is not only unnecessary but hazardous.

Among the hazards, says John Holden, an instructor in the University of California's Energy and Resources Program, are the diversion of financial resources from more compelling social needs, the making of hasty commitments to unproven technologies and envrionmental damage that would harm human welfare more than the extra energy improved it.

Apparently by coincidence, Holden issued his warning just before President Ford unveiled an ambitious proposal for a new government corporation to be called the Energy Independence Authority, which could underwrite some $100 billion in energy projects.

Instead of crash programs to expand conventional energy sources such as coal and oil and to develop presently uneconomical new sources such as solar, geothermal and wind power, Holden argues for conservation of the energy we have now-in industry, transportation, homes and offices.

Reducing waste makes more energy available at smaller economic cost than the alternatives of mining, drilling and building power plants, he argues. "In this sense, conservation is the cheapest new energy source."

Also, contrary to "widespread misconception," he says, energy conservation is likely to increase employment, not decrease it.

This is because "each dollar of investment capital taken out of energy consumption and invested in something else, and each personal-consumption dollar saved by reduced energy use and spent elsewhere in the economy, is likely to benefit employment."

Unfortunately, at least one major barrier stands in the way of implementing Holden's recommendation. This is the conviction most people have that there really is no energy shortage, or if there is, it is a shortage that has been artificially and arbitrarily created by certain groups for their own purposes. OPEC is the prime example.

This, plus our penchant for making problems go away by throwing vast sums of money at them, makes it much more likely that Americans will support a variety of "Manhattan projects" in the energy field before they will entertain suggestions that they make any drastic changes in their accustomed style of energy consumption.

PERSPECTIVE ON SPAIN

The curious double standard the democracies of Europe for some reason are in the habit of employing when it comes to judging the behavior of socialist and non-socialist governments has seldom been as glaringly obvious as it has in the case of Spain of late.

The execution by the Franco government of five convicted terrorists, despite appeals for mercy from everybody from the Pope to prime ministers and presidents, set off a wave of outrage throughout Europe. Diplomats were called home, economic sanctions were threatened.

What barbarism against those whose only crime has been to blow up, shoot and otherwise dispatch more than 50 policemen and civilians in Spain so far this year. The only people outraged by the murders themselves seem to be the Spaniards.

Francisco Franco, of course, is an old fool who either believes the Almighty has suspended the laws of nature on his behalf or is too senile to relize that he is providing history with another example of "after me, the deluge."

Tyrant that he may be, however, for the ordinary Spaniard, life under Franco at his most despotic has been infinitely freer than that of the ordinary Russian under the absolute totalitarianism of the Communist system at its most benevolent.

Yet in their zeal to see Europe rid of its last non-Communist dictatorship, Western leaders are calling for a visitation of chaos upon Spain from which only the Communists will benefit.

As for the United States, it finds itself in somewhat the same awkward position it has been in with regard to Portugal. Leases on U.S. military bases in Spain, which may or may not be vital to Western Europe's defense, have just been renegotiated.

But any expression of support by Washington for the Franco government, whether in the interests of our own global security or purely out of concern at the prospect of another people going down the Communist tube, would immediately bring down the wrath of our home-grown humanitarians.

Fortunately, the Portuguese so far have demonstrated a tenacious determination to win the kind of political freedom they have never really known. Thus one can still hope that when Spain's time of transition comes, and it is coming soon, the Spanish will also know what is best for themselves despite the "help" of their friends in the democracies.

WASHINGTON - Two new books have come out concerning Watergate. One is titled "The Women of Watergate" by Madeleine Edmondson and Alden Duer Cohen and the other is "Mo" by Maureen Dean with Hays Gorey. The thrust of both books is that if the wives of the conspirators had only known what their husbands were doing, Watergate may never have gotten out of hand.

Anyone who believes that doesn't know how people live in Washington. This is what would and probably did happen.

"Hello, dear. Wow, what a day at the White House. I just had to persuade three people to lie to the FBI."

"The toilet's broken again. Everytime I call the plumber he doesn't pay any attention to me. If you would call just once maybe we'd get some action around here."

"Listen, I need a drink real bad. I had to fill the President in on some stupid break-in at the Watergate and he was steaming mad. He told me to see that no one found out about it even if I had to use every organization in the country including the CIA."

"I'll tell you who else is steaming mad -- Sears Roebuck. They called up and said we hadn't paid their bill for three months. I thought you told me you were going to send them a check."

"I was, but it slipped my mind. You see some jerks over at the Committee to Re-Elect the President committed a burglary and seven were arrested. It turns out two of them were members of a secret oufit we have in the White House called 'the plumbers' who were up to their eyeballs in illegal activities. Now the press is on to it and they've called a special grand jury. I'm going to have to perjure myself in front of the grand jury to save the President."

"Well, when will you send the check to Sears Roebuck?"

"Will you stop talking about Sears Roebuck? If this thing gets out in the open it will blow the Administration sky-high. My clothes are filthy from destroying evidence we found in one of the plumbers' safes."

"Isn't that illegal to destroy evidence..."

"Of course it's illegal, but it had to be done. In fact I'm going back tonight to burn some more files."

"Then that means you can't go to the Greens' for dinner..."

"No way. The President doesn't want one piece of paper linked to him."

"This is the third time we've canceled on the Greens. You should be ashamed of yourself."

"I can't help it. After I destroy the evidence I have to meet several members of the Committee to Re-Elect the President. They're getting chicken about the investigation and I'm going to have to lean on them pretty hard. I have to make sure they stick to the phony story we made up even if I have to bribe them."

"And what am I supposed to do while you're having a good time? Watch television?"

"Dearest, don't you understand? If this thing doesn't work out the way we want it to, I could go to jail for years."

"That reminds me. Your mother called and wants to know when your Aunt Katherine and Uncle Phil can visit the White House. You promised they wouldn't have to stand in line with the rest of the tourists."

"I have to tell you this in strictest confidence. The President has tape recordings of every conversation he had in his office. We have to listen to these tapes and erase anything that could incriminate him."

"Will you stop bothering me with all this small talk? There's a smoking pistol out there somewhere and we have to deep-six it."

"Which means you're not going to call the plumber?"

"Let me ask one question. Knowing what you know now about my involvement in this Watergate mess, do you think I've done the right thing?"

'How should I know? I haven't been out of this house in a week."

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON---A highly classified Pentagon intelligence study predicts the Soviets, Chinese and their communist allies will have almost 15,000 combat planes to hurl against the U.S. Navy by 1985.

The unsettling document, stamped "Secret," deals only with Soviet airpower available for an attack on the Navy. It expresses "normal uncertainty" about its ten-year forecast.

But its figures clearly show distinct communist air gains during the 80's. By 1985, the communist world is expected to have 14,605 fighters, bombers and reconnaissance planes within range of U.S. naval ships and facilities.

The document warns that the Soviets alone will have 7,810 combat planes able to attack U.S. Navy forces. The other Warsaw Pact nations will have 2,230; China 3,725; North Korea 490 and North Vietnam 350.

Soviet strike forces will include hot new MIG variations such as the "Fishbed," "Flogger," "Fencer" and "Foxbat." Another 575 Soviet jets will be long-range strategic bombers, the study projects.

By contrast, the Navy is unlikely to have more than 2,500 tactical war planes. The Air Force may have 10,000 planes, but most would not be available for combat against a Russian attack on the Navy. There is no estimate of the 1985 strength of U.S. allies.

The study is the work of the hush-hush Defense Intelligence projections and Planning team and is titled "1985 Air Threat to Navy Forces." It is based on the assumption that the U.S. Navy will continue to ring Europe and Asia with surface and undersea craft, and thus be vulnerable to attacks on patrol craft.

The communist air fleets will also have advanced technical features to plague the U.S. in case of conflict.

"By 1985 (U.S.) naval air strike forces will encounter a numerically superior enemy fighter force equipped with beyond-visual-range air-to-air missiles," warns the Pentagon intelligence document.

"Future Soviet surface-to-air defense weapons will be highly mobile, equipped with multimode sensors and designed to degrade the (U.S.) Navy's defense suppression capability," the report concludes.

Footnote: The Navy has been shaken by Pentagon and Congressional efforts to impose the new F-18 fighter on them as their plane of the 80's. Navy experts complain in classified memos that the F-18 runs a moderate to high risk of being an unreliable performer.

REAGAN RUMBLE: Insiders with the Presidential campaign of ex-California Gov. Ronald Reagan advise us that former Nixon campaign workers are being recruited in droves.

While few have gotten top jobs, many are veterans of the dirty tricks campaign of 1972 that led to Watergate. Some are already at work contriving shows of enthusiasm for the handsome conservative.

RED HERRING: After we named Soviet U.N. Ambassador Yakov Malik as a Soviet spymaster, our journalistic ethics were lambasted by Iona Andronov, a star writer for the Soviet's worldwide "New Times" magazine.

Now we have learned that Andronov's own journalistic ethics are on shaky foundations. Senior U.S. intelligence sources identify him as a dedicated KGB agent who poses as a newsman.

ARM TWIST: Easygoing Rep. Jerry Patterson, D-Calif., a junior member of both the Merchant Marine and Banking committees, has been assidously seeking money from the industries he oversees.

Patterson scoured campaign contribution lists for bankers and shippers who come under his jurisdiction, then put the arm on them for $100 tickets to a fundraiser at the Disneyland Hotel. Helping him was his powerful chairman, Rep. Fernand St. Germain, D-R.I., of the Financial Institutions subcommittee.

BRIBE PROBE: San Francisco U.S. Attorney James Browning will take time off from the Patty Hearst case later this month to probe a $50,000 bribe reportedly offered by Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos to a Congressional witness.

Browning began his grand jury investigation after ex-Marcos aide Primitivo Mijares gave us documentary evidence that a secret $50,000 bank account was opened for him by a Philippine diplomat.

Mijares has sworn the bank account was ordered opened by Marcos to keep him from testifying on Capitol Hill against the Marcos regime. The account was abruptly closed when he testified anyway. Marcos denies the bribe charge.

WASHINGTON WHIRL: Marine Corps generals and aides, who usually bug their own uniforms, are "wear testing" $27,000 worth of new uniforms courtesy of the taxpayers. Purpose: to see whether the $728 to $1,326 outfits should be adopted by the Corps...The pro-industry Interstate Commerce Comission, which President Ford is now trying to shake up, has regulated trucking for 40 years but never formally revoked a trucker's license...At Philadelphia's new William Green Federal Office Building, the handsome vinyl floors laid down only a few months ago have already been covered by the General Services Administration with $350,000 worth of plush carpeting...The Armed Forces Radiobiology Research Institute smashed 12 live monkeys into a metal wall as part of a brain injury study, we have learned. The 1973 research left some of the primates alive for days. The Pentagon says the monkeys were anesthetized before being put into the "impact sled."

WHY FAULT FBI?

Revolutionary Trotskyite U.S. Socialist Workers Party Applauds, Joins UN Assault on Israel

NEW YORK--It appears to me in the interest of objective journalism and the FBI, which takes such merciless attacks these days, that it's necessary to report that the Socialist Workers Party has "wholeheartedly" endorsed the Soviet-Arab United Nations resolution condemning Zionism and Israel as "racist."

This might be of ethical concern to those semi-skilled intellectuals who pounce with such Pavlovian pleasure on any issue that batters the FBI.

For years now the FBI has been sharply criticized for keeping the Socialist Workers Party (SWP) under surveillance--and for infiltrating it. The most scathing criticism has come from those who haven't done their homework.

Otherwise these critics would know that the SWP, which a considerable number of cliche liberals have championed, is a direct actionist revolutionary organization devoted to the destruction of our government as we know it. And to the expropriation of the large banks and corporations, including the press and broadcast facilities; and the establishment of workers committees or commissions similar to those operating in Portugal and Spain.

This SWP, which has been successfully demanding confidential FBI and CIA files, is merely the world revolutionary slightly revised carbon copy of the one-nation Communization concept of the early Kremlin. The SWP is in the fold of the "Fourth Internationale." Meaning that when their ideological "god" Leon Trotsky was purged by Stalin, the Trotskyites simply set up their own revolutionary global network in exile to differentiate them from the Moscovite Third Internationale.

By quite skillfully putting the accent on the word "Socialist" in its party title, it has successfully image-ized itself as a gradualist working-man, American apple pie and proletarian motherhood advocate. The SWP isn't at all in the image of the late Norman Thomas. Nor of the futile endemic American Socilists who sent a representative or two to Congress from New York, Milwaukee and Reading, Pa. Or those who elected Socialist mayors in New England and Wisconsin.

The SWP is brutally Trotskyite. Though it goes through all the rhetoric about democratic processes and elections, it is linked across the world through international headquarters in Brussels, Belgium, with some mighty tough revolutionary "peoples army" guerrilla forces--especially in Latin America.

So little known is this in the U.S. that the SWP rolled up over 100,000 votes for its 1972 presidential candidate. Its regional nominees for various offices piled up 440,000 across the nation. In California alone, where its national ideologue Farrell Dobbs now lives, it attracted some 150,000 votes.

It is Dobbs who militarized the Teamsters during the '30s in Minneapolis while he was Leon Trotsky's top agent in the U.S. It is Dobbs who taught Jimmy Hoffa, who was on muscle duty in that city, the intricate techniques of paralyzing a nation's transportation system.

Today the party of Trotsky, who was the truly cruel, early-vintage Commissar of the Red Army, has a tightly disciplined membership of 2,500--small indeed by American standards. That's not the point, or the issue. Involved here is the assault on the FBI for keeping under surveillance this 46-year-old American sector of the Fourth Internationale. Much has been made of the FBI's inadvertent probe of a teenager and a college professor or two. Little has been said by the intellectual world about the SWP's inherent Trotskyite philosophy. Perhaps it takes too much concentrated study for these semi-skilled intellectuals to analyse his vast revolutionary writings. It reeks of violence all the way through as does the record of his days of power in Moscow until 1927 when Stalin drove him out and later had him killed by an alpenstock-wielding GPU (KGB) assassin in Mexico City.

Hereare its own words, reflecting its Fourth International philosophy reiterated by its August convention in Oberlin, Ohio: "The task is to provide the program and leadership to help our class move forward on the road to socialist revolution and construct a mass revolutionary party that is capable of leading the way to victory...and in the U.S. there is no other force but the SWP that will be able to provide the necessary leadership."

This, then, is the party which, the other day, attacked Israel as a "colonial settler state." It lashed at Zionism. It supported the Palestinians. The SWP ardently backed the charge that "Zionism is racism."

One can disagree with the Zionists. But I doubt there's a newsman who has covered Israel who hasn't seen the races of the world mix freely there or who doesn't know of the Israelis' technical aid given freely on all continents so all could draw ever more sustenance from the earth.

Yes, of course, one can disagree with Zionsim, but to describe it as racist is reminiscent of the gory rhetoric of the '30s which brought holocaust and death not to any one religion but to 100 million of all races and creeds. At least now we know where the Trotskyites stand.

What is really at stake in Quinlan issue?

By FRANK BURRELL

The Karen Anne Quinlan case, or the so-called "death with dignity" issue, poses one of the most controversial and mind-boggling questions facing mankind today, morally, mentally and spiritually.

At stake at the moment is whether the 21- year- old Miss Quinland, and perhaps many other patients who have been declared terminally ill, should be kept alive as long as possible by every means available or be allowed to die by unhooking life supporting devices that keep them alive.

The question landed in court when Karen's father, Joseph Qunlan, filed suit to have the respirator keeping his daughter alive unhooked. The young New Jersey woman has been in a coma since April and has been declared hopelessly and irreversibly ill.

When the doctors refused their request, the Quinlans turned to the courts in an effort to win legal approval.

However, Superior Court Judge Robert Muir Jr. rejected their request last week by ruling that doctors may not unhook Karen's respirator. In his decision the judge termed the question of the respirator's removal a medical decision and said care and treatment of Karen should remain in medical hands.

The decision will be appealed and eventually may become a Supreme Court case.

The Quinland case, which has been widely publicized since catching the public eye several weeks ago, has divided people of all walks of life into separate camps on the issue.

Since many leaders in the legal, medical and religious fields have b een widely and extensively quoted on the many sides of the issue -- without much agreement among any -- there is little I can say that has not already been said more effectively and intelligently. But I have formed some opinions of my own which this column gives me an opportunity to share.

First of all, let me say that I believe society will be best served by preserving life at all costs and refusing to willfully allow anyone to die by removing life sustaining mechanisms.

I agree that, under the mental anguish and strain of being pronounced terminally ill or seeing a loved one so afflicted, I possibly might feel differently. Most people, myself included, have no desire to become a burden to loved ones or to society and have made such a statement as: "I hope I don't have a long illness because I don't want to be a burden."

But, remember, I said I believe society will be best served by preserving life rather than allowing it to end. Too often, especially in times of emotional and mental stress, man's desires are governed expediency. In this case, the expedient thing would understandably be the removal of the source of the strain -- even to the point of willing self or a loved one to die.

On the surface, there seems little harm in allowing a person who is presumably going to die any way to go ahead and die. But, like an iceberg, there are many things beneath the surface that could cause immense problems in the years ahead if we make it legal to allow people, even those pronounced terminally ill, to die.

To begin with, there are innumerable cases in which persons who have been declared terminally ill have recovered, even some who have been comatose longer than Miss Quinlan and some who have been officially pronounced dead and then revived.

Dr. Elizabeth Kubler Ross of Flossmoor, Ill., a noted psychiatrist and author of the book, "On Death and Dying", has interviewed numerous people who have been pronounced dead by doctors and have recovered, as has Dr. Raymond L. Moody, a philosophy professor from Georgia who has written a book coming out this month called "Life After Life'.

I'm not saying that either would support my views on the Quinlan case but nevertheless, they bear evidence that people thought to be dead have revived and recovered.

In refusing to allow Miss Quinlan's respirator to be unhooked. Judge Muir pointed out that although doctors said during the trial that Karen could probably not survive, none of the doctors testified there was "no hope" for her recovery.

If it becomes legal to allow patients to die by removing respirators, would the door not be opened wider for those who favor legal mercy killing — euthanasia? Euthanasia is the act or practice of painlessly putting to death persons suffering incurable and distressing diseases in the name of mercy.

Although none has passed, 19 states have already had legislation introduced to legalize euthanasia, and its proponents expect new interest to be generated by the Quinlan case.

Look how our abortion laws have progressed, or regressed. At first, proponents sought legal abortion only in cases endangering the mother's life. Now many states allow abortions practically on request.

Then there is the matter of economics. With medical costs already at an astronomical level and continuing to rise, is there not a danger that the immense cost of maintaining a person on a respirator might unduly influence families to consent to unhooking it if it became legal?

And what about the patient unable to pay his bills? Would his chances for recovery, however slim, be as likely to be preserved by a society that could stop the expense by pulling the plug?

Under such circumstances, only the very wealthy might receive the best of medical care. Also, if society resorts to euthanasia, might Adolph Hitler's concept of creating a super race of only the fittest and most desirable not be far behind in the mind of super ecologists.

Finally, there is the spiritual aspect. To my way of thinking, only God gives life and only God has the right to take it away. I further believe God has given man the ability and responsibility to nurture and preserve life and has commanded him not to take the life of another man.

Call me old- fashioned, thick-headed or whatever you like. I hope the decision refusing to allow Karen Anne Quinlan's respirator to be unhooked stands and think the world will be a better and safer place if it does.

Franco and his successor

Generallissimo Francisco Franco, right, 82-year-old Spanish chief of state, shakes hands with his designated successor, Prince Juan Carlos de Borbon, at the gate of the Escorial Monastery at San Lorenzo Del Escorial, Spain, in 1971. The two were attending an annual memorial mass for Spain's last king, Alfonso XIII.

Inflation grows

WASHINGTON (AP) — Inflation accelerated in October as sharply higher grocery prices pushed the cost of living up seven-tenths of one per cent, the government said today.

Last month's price increase was the third highest this year and followed increases of only two-tenths of a per cent in August and five-tenths of a per cent in September, the Labor Department said.

Inflation had cooled earlier this year, but spurted briefly during June and July before easing in late summer. Economists, both in and out of government, are concerned that the new acceleration of inflation could choke off consumer buying power and slow the recovery from recession.

Consumer prices over the past 12 months were up 7.6 per cent, the smallest over-the-year increase since the 12-month period ending September, 1973, when they were up 7.4 per cent.

Higher food prices led the October increase, but there also were substantial price gains for new cars, clothing, fuel oil, mortgage interest rates and auto insurance, the government said.

The consumer price index in October stood at 164.6 of the 1967 average of 100, meaning it cost $164.60 to buy the same goods and services that cost $100 eight years ago.

Prices so far this year have increased 5.9 per cent.

At the grocery counter, where prices fell slightly in September, sharp increases for meats, dairy products and coffee pushed prices up 1.5 per cent last month. It was the sharpest jump since a 1.7 per cent increase last July.

However, there were substantial savings on poultry and eggs. Fresh fruit prices dropped sharply for the third straight month, while cereal and bakery products continued their decline that began earlier this year. Sugar prices also were down after increases over the previous two months.

Over-all food costs, including restaurant meals, were up 1.3 per cent following September's rise of only one-tenth of a per cent.

Goods other than food increased in price by three-tenths of a per cent in October, the same as in September. Prices of services rose six-tenths of a per cent largely because of increases for mortgage rates, medical care and rent.

In a separate report, the Labor Department said the buying power of worker's paychecks was unchanged over the month. However, over the year, real earnings were up 1.9 per cent, thanks to the reduction in federal income taxes which took effect last May.

The rise in the non-food price index of three-tenths of one per cent compared with average monthly increases of about six-tenths of a per cent in the first eight months of the year.

In October, fuel oil and coal prices rose 1.8 per cent, one of the sharpest increases this year. Gasoline and motor oil prices declined slightly, but not as much as usual in October and as a result were still up nine-tenths of a per cent.

Prices for new 1976 cars were up 2.7 per cent. However, they normally rise at this time of the year, and the new car index declined one-tenth of a per cent after seasonal adjustment.

Spain mourns Franco

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Spain today began 30 days of national mourning for Generalissimo Francisco Franco, Western Europe's last surviving dictator, who died early today after a month-long battle for life.

Heads of other West European governments expressed the hope that the death of the man who had ruled Spain with an iron hand for 36 years would mean the rebirth of democracy in his country. But his reactionary supporters were already gearing up for a determined fight against the advocates of a new and liberal Spain.

The government announced that Franco would be given a state funeral on Sunday and that the successor he designated, Prince Juan Carlos de Borbon, would be installed on Saturday as Spain's first king in 44 years.

The 37-year-old prince, who has been acting chief of state since Oct. 30, is a grandson of King Alfonso XIII and was educated and trained under Franco's supervision from the age of 11. The dictator designated him his successor in 1969, but many Spaniards expect him to try to move the political system toward democracy.

Juan Carlos will take the name King Juan Carlos I since his father, Don Juan, the Count of Barcelona, has refused to renounce his own prior claim to the throne.

Franco's 26-man medical team in a final bulletin said the generalissimo's condition deteriorated throughout the night until he suffered "irreversible heart arrest" at 5:25 a.m. Informed sources said his only child, his daughter Carmen, was at his side with four of his grandchildren.

Franco's wife of 52 years had returned home, exhausted by her long death watch.

Although the doctors' bulletin gave the cause of death as heart failure, they listed nine ailments from which Franco was suffering in his final illness. They were Parkinson's disease, which he had for several years; coronary disease, acute digestive ulcers with massive repeated hemorrhaging, bacterial peritonitis, acute renal (kidney) failure, thrombophlebitis, bilateral bronchial pneumonia, endotoxic shock and heart arrest.

The 5-foot-3-inch generalissimo died just two weeks before his 83rd birthday.

He had been ill since Oct. 17 and had suffered repeated heart attacks, had undergone three major abdominal operations and for days had been kept alive by massive blood transfusions, a respirator, an artificial kidney machine and other mechanical devices as well as his own indomitable will to live.

Trial ends in hung jury

CHARLESTON — A Circuit Court trial Wednesday for Flint Pritchett, 47, of rural Matthews on a felonious assault charge resulted in a hung jury at 3 a.m. today.

The jury, impaneled about noon Wednesday to hear the case filed in connection with the Nov. 27, 1974, shooting assault on Donald Lee Hubbard of East Prairie, received the case about 11:30 p.m.

Judge Marshall Craig summoned the jury back into the courtroom about 2:10 a.m. to inquire if the panel would be able to reach a verdict if given additional time to deliberate. Some 20 minutes later, Judge Craig again recalled the jury of six men and six women and, after being informed it was very unlikely that a unanimous verdict could be reached, he declared a hung jury and dismissed the panel.

State witnesses called by Prosecuting Attorney Edward C. Graham included Hubbard, Deputy Sheriff Norris Grissom, Kenneth Hudson of East Prairie, Terry Ditto of rural Matthews and Steve and Charles McGill of Anniston.

The shooting incident, according to testimony, occurred about 8 a.m. Nov. 27, 1974 at Stanley Muffler Co., located on Highway 80 just west of East Prairie city limits.

Hubbard, president of the company, was struck by three bullets fired from a five-shot .38 - caliber revolver. One shot went through his left wrist, striking him in the chin. He was also shot once in the left shoulder and once in the right shoulder.

The state attempted to prove that one of the shoulder wounds was the result of a shot in the back. However, no medical evidence to this fact was introduced.

The shooting reportedly was the culmination of problems between the two men, who are brothers-in-law, over a period of about eight months which reportedly involved a dog that had made its home in the muffler plant.

Hubbard testified that he arrived at the plant shortly after 7 a.m. on Nov. 27, denied talking directly to Pritchett but said he heard Pritchett say something about shooting the dog. After the work bell sounded, Hubbard said he went into his office, handled his regular duties and instructed his bookkeeper to

Jerry Lee Summers, 18, of 224 Young St., was charged today with the armed robbery of Art Ziegler, 217 Kennedy Drive, at 7:15 p.m. Wednesday outside Ziegler's Superette, 612 W. North St.

Police Detective Lt. Jack Patterson said Ziegler was approached by two men as he was getting into his truck outside the store. One of the two men stood in the shadows with a gun and demanded Ziegler's money.

The other man walked around the truck and grabbed a money bag containing an undisclosed amount of money. When Ziegler held onto the bag, the assailant knocked him to the ground and knocked off his glasses and hat. Ziegler was not hurt, but lay on the ground until the men fled.

Ziegler then went to the police station to report the robbery.

Lt. Anderson Walker and officers Willie Joe Harrington and Bob Bonner took Summers into custody at a house on Thompson Street about 11:45 p.m., and Patterson said some of the money taken in the robbery has been recovered.

Patterson added that police have no leads so far to help them identify the other man, but that they may have some soon. The criminal investigation division is still investigating the robbery, he said.

Floating museum

Hundreds of visitors boarded the Sergeant Floyd Wednesday at New Madrid to tour the floating museum of waterway history. Owned by the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, the old river towboat has been outfitted for the Bicentennial celebration. The story of the Corps of Engineers role in the development of the nation was presented through a series of multi-media shows and displays. The Floyd will tour the inland and gulf intracostal waterways until December 1976, presenting its free show to the general public.

Boon Park construction given Dexter priority

DEXTER — Development of the new seven- acre Boon Park, to be located north of the High School football field, and improvement of other city parks are now the main priorities of the Park Board, president Glenn Ayers said Thursday.

Work on West City Park has already started. Plans for that park called for the removal of a road on the north edge of the park to provide more room for recreational activities and to build a pavilion near where the road had been.

The road has already been eliminated, Ayers said, and the new pavilion is expected to be built during the winter for use next spring and summer.

Proposed work on Boon Park will be financed through a federal grant, if the money is approved. The state has approved $33,869 in funds, but Ayers said that final approval by the federal government is still necessary.

The funds received preliminary approval earlier this month by the State Inter-Agency Council for Outdoor Recreation in the Missouri Department of Natural Resources.

The money is part of $3.5 million in outdoor recreation assistance funds distributed throughut the state as part of Missouri's 1976 apportionment

Former Sikeston man killed

HATTISBURG, Miss. - Gene Lee Mills, 26, of Hattisburg, Miss., formerly of Sikeston, Mo., was killed at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday in a construction accident on the site of a power plant at Purvis, about 10 miles south of Hattisburg.

Mills, a civil engineer for the Burns- McDonnell Engineering Co. based in Kansas City, Mo., was struck by a steel beam which fell, hitting and killing him.

He was married to the former Carol Perry of Canalou, who survives.

Other surivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rolla D. Mills of Centralia, Kan.; and three brothers, Allan of North Dakota and Earl and Lyle of Centralia, Kan.

Friends may call after 3 p.m. today at the Bill O'Guinn Funeral Home in Sikeston.

Services are scheduled at 2 p.m. Friday at the First Assembly of God Church in Sikeston with the Rev. Loren Wooten officiating.

Burial will follow at Centralia, Kan.

Rice ordered to stand trial in February

BLOOMFIELD — After pleading not guilty during Circuit Court proceedings Wednesday, Carl Wayne Rice, 35, of Dexter was ordered to stand trial Feb. 3, 1976 on a charge of manslaughter.

Rice is charged with the July 7 hit- and- run death of Sharon Bond, 20, of Sikeston.

The highway patrol reported that the fatality occurred when a car struck the back of a motorcycle driven by Wesley Bond, 26, of Sikeston on Highway 60 near Dexter. Mrs. Bond was a passengenr on the motorcycle.

The driver of the car fled the scene. Rice later turned himself over to Stoddard County authorities.

Reagan finally makes it official

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Ronald Reagan announced his candidacy for the White House today, challenging President Ford and a Washington "buddy system" he blamed for major national woes.

"I believe my candidacy will be healthy for the nation and my party," the conservative Californian and former actor said as he began the actie phase of his effort to wrest the White House from a Republican President.

Ford aides and allies contend the Reagan challenge could divide the GOP and thus help the Democrats in the end.

Reagan keynoted his personal campaign with a slap at the Washington establishment. While he didn't say so directly, he clearly included Ford.

The former two-term governor of California ticked off his complaints: high rates of inflation, unemployment and interest; big government he called coercive, meddlesome and ineffective; a diminished U.S. defense posture; detente with the Soviet Union, which he said is too one-sided.

"In my opinion, the root of these problems lies right here — in Washington, D.C.," Reagan said in a prepared declaration of candidacy. "Our nation's capital has become the seat of a 'buddy' system that functions for its own benefit — increasingly insensitive to the needs of the American worker who supports it with his taxes.

"Today it is difficult to find leaders who are independent of the forces that have brought us our problems — the Congress, the bureaucracy, the lobbyists, big business and big labor," Reagan said.

"If America is to survive and go forward this must change," he said. "It will only change when the American people vote for a leadership that listens to them, relies on them and seeks to return government to them. We need a government that is confident not of what it can do but of what the people can do."

Reagan cited his years as governor of California as evidence that he can manage government more efficiently. "We found that fiscal responsibility is possible, that the welfare rolls can come down, that social problems can be met below the federal level," Reagan said.

Republican rebuttal wasn't long in coming.

Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois had a reply to Reagan ready in advance, saying the former governor would lead the GOP to the kind of election defeat the Democrats suffered in 1972 with Sen. George McGovern.

"Indeed, I believe a Reagan nomination and the crushing defeat likely to follow could signal the beginning of the end for our party as an effective force in American political life," Percy said.

Percy, who explored presidential candidacy himself before Ford succeeded to the White House, said he hopes the President will not try to match Reagan's rhetoric or policies. "If the President wins the nomination by out-Reaganing Reagan, it will cost him the election, and that will serve neither our party nor his own conservative philosophy," Percy said.

Reagan was following up his announcement with a quick two-day campaign swing to four early primary states — Florida, New Hampshire, North Carolina and Illinois.

Reagan, an activist liberal Democrat in his early Hollywood days, is making his second bid for the Republican presidential nomination. The first, at the GOP convention in 1968, was brief and futile against the commanding strength of Richard M. Nixon.

But Reagan was the only GOP rival who worried Nixon in that campaign, testament to the clout of conservatives in a GOP National Convention.

This time, Reagan, now 64, has had a campaign committee at work for five months, and his insistence that he had not made up his mind about candidacy didn't fool the politicians.

At the Ford campaign committee and at the White House there were early signals of an effort to counter the Reagan threat.

One of the first political moves the Ford team made was to sign up leading figures in the California GOP, many of them old Reagan allies, apparently in hopes that would dissuade the challenger.

On the road, Ford stressed his own conservative credentials.

Indeed, it was opposition of conservatives, who could be mobilized only by Reagan, that led Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller to rule himself off a 1976 Ford ticket, to end what he called party squabbling.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

WHICH "7 OR 9" SENATE OFFICES?

Despite the belated outcries of a growing number of Congressmen, the American people are still waiting for some answers to persistent reports of Russian infiltration of Capitol Hill offices.

The charge first surfaced publicly in a recent television program featuring Sen. Barry Goldwater. When his alarming allegation failed to raise a stir, the Senator repeated it on public television during an interview with Martin Agronsky.

Goldwater said his information came last February in a conversation with Vice President Rockefeller, who headed the commission which investigated the CIA. The Vice President explained to the Senator that "his committee has learned of instances where the offices of Senators had been infiltrated by Soviet agents," said Goldwater. When he later asked Rockefeller why the information wasn't in the report, said Goldwater, he was told, "I was requested not to publish it."

"As I recall it, the figure he used was either seven or nine offices where they had discovered infiltration, and they suspected a few committees," said Goldwater, who added that Soviet infiltrators on Capitol Hill are "working in offices, reporting, helping in the drafting of legislation, the writing of reports ... but I have no idea what offices they might be in..."

John Milliken, a press aide to Rockefeller, confirmed to a Washington reporter that the conversation took place, although he couldn't confirm the "seven or nine" figure.

It is well known that the Russian KGB has agents crawling out of the woodwork across America. Even so, one must still pause in amazement at the incredible public apathy shown to date over these serious charges. It is past time we demanded some answers from Washington.

According to the NR Bulletin, New York City totters even closer to the brink of default as a result of a decision of the state's highest court. It ruled that the legislature's order to two pension funds to buy $125 million of Big MAC bonds was unconstitutional. The amount is only a small part of a $2.5 billion emergency aid package, but the ruling and the continuing refusal by Stae Comptroller Arthur Levitt (the two pension plans' sole trustee) to invest voluntarily throw the whole scheme into doubt.

PANTRY PANIC
Eat, drink and be wary

"Gentlemen: I have recently read a story about a purple coloring which might cause cancer. If it does, I would appreciate your letting me know about it as soon as possible."

"Dear Mr. Secretary: What are potassium sorbate and monosodium phosphate? P.S. I am suspicious."

These are excerpts from two letters out of some 200,000 communications received by the Food and Drug Administration each year from Americans concerned about what is going into their food, and into their bodies, and who are baffled--and frightened--by the sometimes unpronounceable names of chemicals theyy find on food packages and containers. They are reprinted in a recently published book aptly named "Panic in the Pantry."

Co-authored by Elizabeth M. Whelan, Sc. D., and Frederick J. Stare, M.D., chairman of the department of nutrition at Harvard School of Public Health. "Panic in the Pantry" has been causing as much controversy as some of the food-scare stories it attempts to refute.

Certainly, it is going against the popular trend today to maintain that the that the food Americans eat are, on the whole, safe, wholesome and nutritious and that any dangers posed by much-criticized artificial additives are remote.

Concern over food is nothing new. In the 1940s, for example one book caused panic in a lot of pantries by linking milk drinking with cancer. But ever since the cranberries scare in the 1960s, Americans have been bombarded with a succession of claims or reports linking this or that food or pesticide or additive with this or that disease or disorder.

Yet little is said about the role of additives in drastically reducing the incidence of stomach cancer among Americans or the fact that improved nutrition has enabled more people to live to the ages where cancer or heart disease are threats.

All foods, the authors point out, are composed of chemicals, and it would be just as easy to whip up a scare over the "natural" hydrogen cyanide in lima beans as over cyclamates, if laboratory rats were fed the same massive doses that led the FDA to ban the artificial sweetener.

Drs. Whelan and Stare have little good to say about the Delaney Clause, which the FDA invoked in the case of cyclamates. That amendment to the Food and Drug Act states that no food additive shall be permitted in the food supply if it is shown to induce cancer in man or animal-regardless of the size of the dose or the length of time it was fed.

But too much of anything, even common table salt, can cause harm if ingersted in amounts exceeding that in the normal diet.

Fortunately, the cyclamates ban, which even the scientist whose research it was based on now thinks was probably unwarranted, may have had a beneficial result. The FDA seems to have adopted a more cautious approach to claims being made against such things as DES, a growth-promoting hormone fed to cattle (and also found in a wide variety of natural foods), the artificial coloring Red Dye No. 2 and nitrites, used to color meats and to prevent botulism.

"What concerns us most about the current panic over food additives," say the authors, "is that the facts about nutrition and health which have taken hundreds of years to accumulate are bening overlooked in favor of siolated, scientifically irresponsible-but well publicized-claims about alleged 'poisons' in our food.

Among the consequences of the panic, they say, are the "natural food craze" on which the public is spending about $1 billion a year, and the distraction of Americans from such real threats as cigarette smoking, too much saturated fat, lack of exercise and just plain overeating.

Whether or not many Americans will be persuaded by "Panic in the Pantry" and its admonition that, in moderation, we eat, drink and be wary of those who raise questions about the safety of our food, the book would seem to be a much needed counterbalance to the continuing flood of other books, articles and television programs which have made eating not an enjoyable but an anxiety-provoking activity.

CONSERVATION STILL KEY TO ENERGY CRISIS

With the effects of the latest 10 per cent hike in the price of crude oil decreed by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries yet to be felt at the gasoline pump, and amidst continued warnings of natural gas shortages in the event of a severe winter, it may be difficult to believe that what threatens the United States is not too little energy but too much.

According to one specialist in this field, however, forecasts of U.S. energy needs over the next 25 years have been placed much too high, and rapid expansion of energy production to meet those inflated forecasts is not only unnecessary but hazardous.

Among the hazards, says John Holden, an instructor in the University of California's Energy and Resources Program, are the diversion of financial resources from more compelling social needs, the making of hasty commitments to unproven technologies and envrionmental damage that would harm human welfare more than the extra energy improved it.

Apparently by coincidence, Holden issued his warning just before President Ford unveiled an ambitious proposal for a new government corporation to be called the Energy Independence Authority, which could underwrite some $100 billion in energy projects.

Instead of crash programs to expand conventional energy sources such as coal and oil and to develop presently uneconomical new sources such as solar, geothermal and wind power, Holden argues for conservation of the energy we have now-in industry, transportation, homes and offices.

Reducing waste makes more energy available at smaller economic cost than the alternatives of mining, drilling and building power plants, he argues. "In this sense, conservation is the cheapest new energy source."

Also, contrary to "widespread misconception," he says, energy conservation is likely to increase employment, not decrease it.

This is because "each dollar of investment capital taken out of energy consumption and invested in something else, and each personal-consumption dollar saved by reduced energy use and spent elsewhere in the economy, is likely to benefit employment."

Unfortunately, at least one major barrier stands in the way of implementing Holden's recommendation. This is the conviction most people have that there really is no energy shortage, or if there is, it is a shortage that has been artificially and arbitrarily created by certain groups for their own purposes. OPEC is the prime example.

This, plus our penchant for making problems go away by throwing vast sums of money at them, makes it much more likely that Americans will support a variety of "Manhattan projects" in the energy field before they will entertain suggestions that they make any drastic changes in their accustomed style of energy consumption.

PERSPECTIVE ON SPAIN

The curious double standard the democracies of Europe for some reason are in the habit of employing when it comes to judging the behavior of socialist and non-socialist governments has seldom been as glaringly obvious as it has in the case of Spain of late.

The execution by the Franco government of five convicted terrorists, despite appeals for mercy from everybody from the Pope to prime ministers and presidents, set off a wave of outrage throughout Europe. Diplomats were called home, economic sanctions were threatened.

What barbarism against those whose only crime has been to blow up, shoot and otherwise dispatch more than 50 policemen and civilians in Spain so far this year. The only people outraged by the murders themselves seem to be the Spaniards.

Francisco Franco, of course, is an old fool who either believes the Almighty has suspended the laws of nature on his behalf or is too senile to relize that he is providing history with another example of "after me, the deluge."

Tyrant that he may be, however, for the ordinary Spaniard, life under Franco at his most despotic has been infinitely freer than that of the ordinary Russian under the absolute totalitarianism of the Communist system at its most benevolent.

Yet in their zeal to see Europe rid of its last non-Communist dictatorship, Western leaders are calling for a visitation of chaos upon Spain from which only the Communists will benefit.

As for the United States, it finds itself in somewhat the same awkward position it has been in with regard to Portugal. Leases on U.S. military bases in Spain, which may or may not be vital to Western Europe's defense, have just been renegotiated.

But any expression of support by Washington for the Franco government, whether in the interests of our own global security or purely out of concern at the prospect of another people going down the Communist tube, would immediately bring down the wrath of our home-grown humanitarians.

Fortunately, the Portuguese so far have demonstrated a tenacious determination to win the kind of political freedom they have never really known. Thus one can still hope that when Spain's time of transition comes, and it is coming soon, the Spanish will also know what is best for themselves despite the "help" of their friends in the democracies.

WASHINGTON - Two new books have come out concerning Watergate. One is titled "The Women of Watergate" by Madeleine Edmondson and Alden Duer Cohen and the other is "Mo" by Maureen Dean with Hays Gorey. The thrust of both books is that if the wives of the conspirators had only known what their husbands were doing, Watergate may never have gotten out of hand.

Anyone who believes that doesn't know how people live in Washington. This is what would and probably did happen.

"Hello, dear. Wow, what a day at the White House. I just had to persuade three people to lie to the FBI."

"The toilet's broken again. Everytime I call the plumber he doesn't pay any attention to me. If you would call just once maybe we'd get some action around here."

"Listen, I need a drink real bad. I had to fill the President in on some stupid break-in at the Watergate and he was steaming mad. He told me to see that no one found out about it even if I had to use every organization in the country including the CIA."

"I'll tell you who else is steaming mad – Sears Roebuck. They called up and said we hadn't paid their bill for three months. I thought you told me you were going to send them a check."

"I was, but it slipped my mind. You see some jerks over at the Committee to Re-Elect the President committed a burglary and seven were arrested. It turns out two of them were members of a secret oufit we have in the White House called 'the plumbers' who were up to their eyeballs in illegal activities. Now the press is on to it and they've called a special grand jury. I'm going to have to perjure myself in front of the grand jury to save the President."

"Well, when will you send the check to Sears Roebuck?"

"Will you stop talking about Sears Roebuck? If this thing gets out in the open it will blow the Administration sky-high. My clothes are filthy from destroying evidence we found in one of the plumbers' safes."

"Isn't that illegal to destroy evidence..."

"Of course it's illegal, but it had to be done. In fact I'm going back tonight to burn some more files."

"Then that means you can't go to the Greens' for dinner..."

"No way. The President doesn't want one piece of paper linked to him."

"This is the third time we've canceled on the Greens. You should be ashamed of yourself."

"I can't help it. After I destroy the evidence I have to meet several members of the Committee to Re-Elect the President. They're getting chicken about the investigation and I'm going to have to lean on them pretty hard. I have to make sure they stick to the phony story we made up even if I have to bribe them."

"And what am I supposed to do while you're having a good time? Watch television?"

"Dearest, don't you understand? If this thing doesn't work out the way we want it to, I could go to jail for years."

"That reminds me. Your mother called and wants to know when your Aunt Katherine and Uncle Phil can visit the White House. You promised they wouldn't have to stand in line with the rest of the tourists."

"I have to tell you this in strictest confidence. The President has tape recordings of every conversation he had in his office. We have to listen to these tapes and erase anything that could incriminate him."

"Will you stop bothering me with all this small talk? There's a smoking pistol out there somewhere and we have to deep-six it."

"Which means you're not going to call the plumber?"

"Let me ask one question. Knowing what you know now about my involvement in this Watergate mess, do you think I've done the right thing?"

'How should I know? I haven't been out of this house in a week."

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON---A highly classified Pentagon intelligence study predicts the Soviets, Chinese and their communist allies will have almost 15,000 combat planes to hurl against the U.S. Navy by 1985.

The unsettling document, stamped "Secret," deals only with Soviet airpower available for an attack on the Navy. It expresses "normal uncertainty" about its ten-year forecast.

But its figures clearly show distinct communist air gains during the 80's. By 1985, the communist world is expected to have 14,605 fighters, bombers and reconnaissance planes within range of U.S. naval ships and facilities.

The document warns that the Soviets alone will have 7,810 combat planes able to attack U.S. Navy forces. The other Warsaw Pact nations will have 2,230; China 3,725; North Korea 490 and North Vietnam 350.

Soviet strike forces will include hot new MIG variations such as the "Fishbed," "Flogger," "Fencer" and "Foxbat." Another 575 Soviet jets will be long-range strategic bombers, the study projects.

By contrast, the Navy is unlikely to have more than 2,500 tactical war planes. The Air Force may have 10,000 planes, but most would not be available for combat against a Russian attack on the Navy. There is no estimate of the 1985 strength of U.S. allies.

The study is the work of the hush-hush Defense Intelligence projections and Planning team and is titled "1985 Air Threat to Navy Forces." It is based on the assumption that the U.S. Navy will continue to ring Europe and Asia with surface and undersea craft, and thus be vulnerable to attacks on patrol craft.

The communist air fleets will also have advanced technical features to plague the U.S. in case of conflict.

"By 1985 (U.S.) naval air strike forces will encounter a numerically superior enemy fighter force equipped with beyond-visual-range air-to-air missiles," warns the Pentagon intelligence document.

"Future Soviet surface-to-air defense weapons will be highly mobile, equipped with multimode sensors and designed to degrade the (U.S.) Navy's defense suppression capability," the report concludes.

Footnote: The Navy has been shaken by Pentagon and Congressional efforts to impose the new F-18 fighter on them as their plane of the 80's. Navy experts complain in classified memos that the F-18 runs a moderate to high risk of being an unreliable performer.

Helping him was his powerful chairman, Rep. Fernand St. Germain, D-R.I., of the Financial Institutions subcommittee.

BRIBE PROBE: San Francisco U.S. Attorney James Browning will take time off from the Patty Hearst case later this month to probe a $50,000 bribe reportedly offered by Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos to a Congressional witness.

Browning began his grand jury investigation after ex-Marcos aide Primitivo Mijares gave us documentary evidence that a secret $50,000 bank account was opened for him by a Philippine diplomat.

Mijares has sworn the bank account was ordered opened by Marcos to keep him from testifying on Capitol Hill against the Marcos regime. The account was abruptly closed when he testified anyway. Marcos denies the bribe charge.

WHY FAULT FBI?

Revolutionary Trotskyite U.S. Socialist Workers Party Applauds, Joins UN Assault on Israel

NEW YORK--It appears to me in the interest of objective journalism and the FBI, which takes such merciless attacks these days, that it's necessary to report that the Socialist Workers Party has "wholeheartedly" endorsed the Soviet-Arab United Nations resolution condemning Zionism and Israel as "racist."

This might be of ethical concern to those semi-skilled intellectuals who pounce with such Pavlovian pleasure on any issue that batters the FBI.

For years now the FBI has been sharply criticized for keeping the Socialist Workers Party (SWP) under surveillance--and for infiltrating it. The most scathing criticism has come from those who haven't done their homework.

Otherwise these critics would know that the SWP, which a considerable number of cliche liberals have championed, is a direct actionist revolutionary organization devoted to the destruction of our government as we know it. And to the expropriation of the large banks and corporations, including the press and broadcast facilities; and the establishment of workers committees or commissions similar to those operating in Portugal and Spain.

This SWP, which has been successfully demanding confidential FBI and CIA files, is merely the world revolutionary slightly revised carbon copy of the one-nation Communization concept of the early Kremlin. The SWP is in the fold of the "Fourth Internationale." Meaning that when their ideological "god" Leon Trotsky was purged by Stalin, the Trotskyites simply set up their own revolutionary global network in exile to differentiate them from the Moscovite Third Internationale.

By quite skillfully putting the accent on the word "Socialist" in its party title, it has successfully image-ized itself as a gradualist working-man, American apple pie and proletarian motherhood advocate. The SWP isn't at all in the image of the late Norman Thomas. Nor of the futile endemic American Socilists who sent a representative or two to Congress from New York, Milwaukee and Reading, Pa. Or those who elected Socialist mayors in New England and Wisconsin.

The SWP is brutally Trotskyite. Though it goes through all the rhetoric about democratic processes and elections, it is linked across the world through international headquarters in Brussels, Belgium, with some mighty tough revolutionary "peoples army" guerrilla forces--especially in Latin America.

So little known is this in the U.S. that the SWP rolled up over 100,000 votes for its 1972 presidential candidate. Its regional nominees for various offices piled up 440,000 across the nation. In California alone, where its national ideologue Farrell Dobbs now lives, it attracted some 150,000 votes.

It is Dobbs who militarized the Teamsters during the '30s in Minneapolis while he was Leon Trotsky's top agent in the U.S. It is Dobbs who taught Jimmy Hoffa, who was on muscle duty in that city, the intricate techniques of paralyzing a nation's transportation system.

Today the party of Trotsky, who was the truly cruel, early-vintage Commissar of the Red Army, has a tightly disciplined membership of 2,500--small indeed by American standards. That's not the point, or the issue. Involved here is the assault on the FBI for keeping under surveillance this 46-year-old American sector of the Fourth Internationale. Much has been made of the FBI's inadvertent probe of a teenager and a college professor or two. Little has been said by the intellectual world about the SWP's inherent Trotskyite philosophy. Perhaps it takes too much concentrated study for these semi-skilled intellectuals to analyse his vast revolutionary writings. It reeks of violence all the way through as does the record of his days of power in Moscow until 1927 when Stalin drove him out and later had him killed by an alpenstock-wielding GPU (KGB) assassin in Mexico City.

Hereare its own words, reflecting its Fourth International philosophy reiterated by its August convention in Oberlin, Ohio: "The task is to provide the program and leadership to help our class move forward on the road to socialist revolution and construct a mass revolutionary party that is capable of leading the way to victory...and in the U.S. there is no other force but the SWP that will be able to provide the necessary leadership."

This, then, is the party which, the other day, attacked Israel as a "colonial settler state." It lashed at Zionism. It supported the Palestinians. The SWP ardently backed the charge that "Zionism is racism."

One can disagree with the Zionists. But I doubt there's a newsman who has covered Israel who hasn't seen the races of the world mix freely there or who doesn't know of the Israelis' technical aid given freely on all continents so all could draw ever more sustenance from the earth.

Yes, of course, one can disagree with Zionsim, but to describe it as racist is reminiscent of the gory rhetoric of the '30s which brought holocaust and death not to any one religion but to 100 million of all races and creeds. At least now we know where the Trotskyites stand.

Women offenders ignored by officials

NEW YORK (AP) — Women are going into crime in a bigger way but law enforcement officials are ignoring it, the deputy chief of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration said today.

Criminologists have done little, if any, research to determine why some women turn to crime and what might be done to prevent it, and the courts and prison system pay little attention to the particular needs of women offenders, said Charles R. Work in a speech prepared for regional LEAA administrators.

In addition, he said, law enforcement officials have failed to provide equal job opportunities for women and have neglected the women victims of rape and other crimes especially directed at them.

He said the criminal justice system "is a system run by males, predominantly for males. Consequently, it has demonstrated little concern with or interest in the problems of women — either as offenders, victims or as employes."

Work spoke on his last day in office. He submitted his resignation about a month ago and plans to join a private Washington law firm.

He said an LEAA task force on women has found that "law enforcement officials are largely unaware of the status and needs of women in all facets of the criminal justice system."

Women and crime have received recent attention following the federal indictments in California earlier this year of Lynette Fromme and Sara Jane Moore on charges of trying to kill President Ford.

FBI figures indicate that the number of crimes committed by women soared 246 per cent between 1960 and 1972, although women still commit far fewer crimes than men do, he noted.

FBI crime statistics released this week showed that the number of women arrested in 1974 was 9 per cent greater than the number arrested the previous year. The number of men arrested rose 2 per cent during the same period.

During the past five years, "arrests of males were up 35 per cent and female arrests increased 68 per cent" for the seven crime categories measured, the FBI report said.

Work said several recent studies indicate that women who commit crimes often are poor and unemployed. But he said that few prisons "offer any meaningful educational or vocational opportunities for women.

There are almost 16,000 inmates in federal, state and local prisons for women.

Senior and Cadette Girl Scouts of the Cotton Boll Girl Scout Council have travel opportunities through the Girl Scout Runways publication, as exciting a publication as the most recent Christmas gift catalogue. The publication is brim full of national and international events to which the girls may apply. The opportunities range in scope from sessions featuring a study of Indian culture in Sangam, Poona, India: The touring of Indian ruins, attendance of fiestas and working in urban and rural service projects at "Our Cabana" in Cuervavaca, Mexico; skiing and mountain climbing with trained instructors at "Our Chalet", Adelboden, Switzerland; walking through the pages of colonial history in Pennsylvania for "1776 All Over Again,"; "Summer of '76 in Washington, D.C., and exploring the "Riches of the Rockies" in Colorado Springs, Colo. Application deadline in the council office is Nov. 30.

There's more. The Girl Scouts have the opportunity to apply as aides to handicapped girls in which they will use their skills to help handicapped campers have fun at a camp near Kansas City; "Climb and Canoe a Mile Hi" in the shadows of the Great Continental Divide; "Do a Doodle-Le-Dom" a dramatic improvisation to express their thoughts through modern dance at the event in Cleveland; and a choice of other experiences that will be challenging, broadening in scope, exciting and interesting.

Ann Landers

Young woman wants even frontage

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 18-year- old girl with a terrible problem. I'm normal in every way but one -- one breast is much smaller than the oher. When I say "smaller," I mean half the size.

I'm sure there is no way to get the larger one to shrink, so the best solution would be to get the smaller one to grow. Is there such a thing as a hormone cream that might do the job.. Please give me an answer. If you say the cream will work I'll send away for it no matter how expensivse it is. Thank you, Ann. – Unbalanced In Santa Monica

Dear Un: Your problem cannot be solved by a hormone cream, so please don't throw away money on useless junk.

My advice is to see your family doctor. Ask him to recommend a plastic surgeon who does silicone implants. This procedure on the smaller breast could be a godsend to a young woman such as you. Good luck.

Dear Ann Landers: While walking home from the library today I passed a group of young boys. They followed behind me and started to yell out gutter language – four- letter words.

I've always believed that the best method of handling an insult of any kind is to remain silent. I did not turn around nor did I respond to my tormentors in any way. Instead, I turned off the path at the first opportunity and took an alternate route home.

I'm putting aside the obvious -- that their parents have failed in their responsibility to these twisted kids. What I need to know is this: did I , as an adult, do the right thing by ignoring their crudity.. Should I have turned around and reprimanded them somehow.. – Troubled In Retrospect

Dear Troubled: You don't say how old those "kids" were -- but in this day and age, youngsters have been known to carry knives, and even guns. In my opinion you were smart to keep walking.

Dear Ann Landers: Our next-door neighbors are rather nice people and we have become somewhat friendly. It seems they fell in arrears with the telephone company about four months ago and their phone was disconnected.

My husband and I didn't mind too much when they asked if they could use our phone several times a day. But now it seems they've given our number to several of their friends and relatives. We have been receiving calls for them at all hours of the day and night. This means we must send one of our children to their house to get them - or we have to go ourselves, if it is after the children's bedtime.

Frankly, it's becoming a terrible nuisance. How can we tell these folks we don't wish to continue the arrangement without altering our relationship.. We don't want to make enemies. – Walking On Eggs.

Dear Eggs: Your neighbors have gone far beyond the boundaries of friendship. They are exploiting you shamelessly and you must be saints or fools to tolerate it. Tell them at once you are not able to continue the paging service because it is too disruptive, and it also ties up your line. If this announcement alters the relationship, in my opinion you're lucky.

What is really at stake in Quinlan issue?

By FRANK BURRELL

The Karen Anne Quinlan case, or the so-called "death with dignity" issue, poses one of the most controversial and mind-boggling questions facing mankind today, morally, mentally and spiritually.

At stake at the moment is whether the 21- year- old Miss Quinland, and perhaps many other patients who have been declared terminally ill, should be kept alive as long as possible by every means available or be allowed to die by unhooking life supporting devices that keep them alive.

The question landed in court when Karen's father, Joseph Qunlan, filed suit to have the respirator keeping his daughter alive unhooked. The young New Jersey woman has been in a coma since April and has been declared hopelessly and irreversibly ill.

When the doctors refused their request, the Quinlans turned to the courts in an effort to win legal approval.

However, Superior Court Judge Robert Muir Jr. rejected their request last week by ruling that doctors may not unhook Karen's respirator. In his decision the judge termed the question of the respirator's removal a medical decision and said care and treatment of Karen should remain in medical hands.

The decision will be appealed and eventually may become a Supreme Court case.

The Quinland case, which has been widely publicized since catching the public eye several weeks ago, has divided people of all walks of life into separate camps on the issue.

Since many leaders in the legal, medical and religious fields have b een widely and extensively quoted on the many sides of the issue -- without much agreement among any -- there is little I can say that has not already been said more effectively and intelligently. But I have formed some opinions of my own which this column gives me an opportunity to share.

First of all, let me say that I believe society will be best served by preserving life at all costs and refusing to willfully allow anyone to die by removing life sustaining mechanisms.

I agree that, under the mental anguish and strain of being pronounced terminally ill or seeing a loved one so afflicted, I possibly might feel differently. Most people, myself included, have no desire to become a burden to loved ones or to society and have made such a statement as: "I hope I don't have a long illness because I don't want to be a burden."

But, remember, I said I believe society will be best served by preserving life rather than allowing it to end. Too often, especially in times of emotional and mental stress, man's desires are governed expediency. In this case, the expedient thing would understandably be the removal of the source of the strain -- even to the point of willing self or a loved one to die.

On the surface, there seems little harm in allowing a person who is presumably going to die any way to go ahead and die. But, like an iceberg, there are many things beneath the surface that could cause immense problems in the years ahead if we make it legal to allow people, even those pronounced terminally ill, to die.

To begin with, there are innumerable cases in which persons who have been declared terminally ill have recovered, even some who have been comatose longer than Miss Quinlan and some who have been officially pronounced dead and then revived.

Dr. Elizabeth Kubler Ross of Flossmoor, Ill., a noted psychiatrist and author of the book, "On Death and Dying", has interviewed numerous people who have been pronounced dead by doctors and have recovered, as has Dr. Raymond L. Moody, a philosophy professor from Georgia who has written a book coming out this month called "Life After Life'.

I'm not saying that either would support my views on the Quinlan case but nevertheless, they bear evidence that people thought to be dead have revived and recovered.

In refusing to allow Miss Quinlan's respirator to be unhooked, Judge Muir pointed out that although doctors said during the trial that Karen could probably not survive, none of the doctors testified there was "no hope" for her recovery.

If it becomes legal to allow patients to die by removing respirators, would the door not be opened wider for those who favor legal mercy killing — euthanasia? Euthanasia is the act or practice of painlessly putting to death persons suffering incurable and distressing diseases in the name of mercy.

Although none has passed, 19 states have already had legislation introduced to legalize euthanasia, and its proponents expect new interest to be generated by the Quinlan case.

Look how our abortion laws have progressed, or regressed. At first, proponents sought legal abortion only in cases endangering the mother's life. Now many states allow abortions practically on request.

Then there is the matter of economics. With medical costs already at an astronomical level and continuing to rise, is there not a danger that the immense cost of maintaining a person on a respirator might unduly influence families to consent to unhooking it if it became legal?

And what about the patient unable to pay his bills? Would his chances for recovery, however slim, be as likely to be preserved by a society that could stop the expense by pulling the plug?

Under such circumstances, only the very wealthy might receive the best of medical care. Also, if society resorts to euthanasia, might Adolph Hitler's concept of creating a super race of only the fittest and most desirable not be far behind in the mind of super ecologists.

Finally, there is the spiritual aspect. To my way of thinking, only God gives life and only God has the right to take it away. I further believe God has given man the ability and responsibility to nurture and preserve life and has commanded him not to take the life of another man.

Call me old- fashioned, thick-headed or whatever you like. I hope the decision refusing to allow Karen Anne Quinlan's respirator to be unhooked stands and think the world will be a better and safer place if it does.

Travel funds for year nearly gone with ¾ left

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — With three-quarters of the fiscal year remaining, nearly all of a $20,000 appropriation for travel has been used by 10 Missouri legislators and two of the governor's appointees to the state Commission on Interstate Cooperation.

Because of trips to Alaska, Canada, Colorado, Pennsylvania and Iowa, only $1,411 of a $20,000 appropriation to the commission is left for the rest of the fiscal year.

The Interestate Cooperation Commission paid $8,100 of its appropriation as part of its share of the costs of the National Conference of the Commission of Uniform State Laws which met in Quebec, Canada in August. The rest of the expenditures, more than $10,000 was used for five trips out of the state by 10 legislators and two appointees of Gov. Christopher S. Bond.

According to state accounting records, those using the travel expenses were Rep. Walter Meyer, D-Bellefontaine Neighbors; Rep. Dan Harjmon, R-Noel; Rep. Nathaniel Rivers, D-St. Louis; House Speaker Richard Rabbitt; Rep. Richard DeCoster, D-Canton; Rep. William Raisch, R-Affton; Rep. S.L. Piekarski, D-St. Louis; Rep. Phillip Scaglia, D-Kansas City; Sen. Donald Gralike, D-St. Louis and Sen. Maurice Schechter, D-Creve Coeur.

Meyer, Harmon and Gralike spent four days in Anchorage, Alaska in September, attending the western regional conference of the Counncil of State Government.

Gralike's expenses amounted to $715, Harmon's were $749 and Meyer said he spent $836. Gralike and Meyer also attended the National Legislators' Conference in Philadelphia last month, and were joined by Rep. Rabbitt, D-St. Louis and Rivers.

The travel expenses for the Philadelphia trip were: Gralike, $493, Me meyer, $442, ;4-??855, $362 And Rivers, $347.

At a Council of State Governments meeting at Lake Okoboji, Iowa for four days in August, Gralike filed expenses of $458; Rivers $382; Schechter, $370, Raisch, $447 and Meyer, $485.

DeCsoter went on from Iowa to a state council committee meeting in Denver annd billed the state $657 for the entire trip.

Piekarski and Scaglia also attended the Denver meeting, spending $312 and $408 respectively, according to state records.

Aslo in Agusts, three officials were at the Quebec, Canada session. They were Rabbitt and Webster Groves attorney John F. Arnold and U.S. District Judge Floyd Gibson of Kansas City.

Arnold and Gibson are Bond's appointees to the Interstwte Cooperation Commission.

For the Canada trip, the state reimbursed Rabbitt $537, Arnold $640 and Gibson $794. Arnold also submitted a $990 bill to the state for attending the national conference last year in Honolulu.

Rabbitt said the expenditures were "justified."

"It's only a $20,000 expense in a $2 billion budget," he said.

Meyer said he used the Alaska trip to find out about malpractice insurance.

"The Council on State Governments is the only place we get input from countrywide experiences," Meyer said.

Music pageant slated tonight

CAPE GIRARDEAU - The Central High School music department will present a Bicentennial celebration pageant at 7:30 p.m. today and Friday in the school auditorium. The musical pageant will depict the nation's history and will feature adults from the community as historical figures in the program as well as American music arrangements performed by the school choirs, concert band and orchestra.

The Cape Girardeau Bicentennial Committee is assisting Judy Williams, the school choral director, in presenting the performances.

Many personalities well-known in the community will portray such figures as Patrick Henry, Benjamin Franklin, Abigail Adams, George Washington, Thomas Jefferson and others.

Colorful authentic costuming will be used throughout the program, which is titled "The American Spirit" and written by Inez Smith, former chairman of the Central High School English department, assisted by Bob White and Mrs. Williams.

All tickets were to be sold in advance.

Proceeds from the pageant will help to send the school's chamber choir to Washinton, D, C., to perform at the national Jubilee choral festival Dec. 27-30.

Organizations or individuals interested in helping the group in its efforts should contact Mrs. Williams; the Rev. Robert Lange, chairman of the parents committeed, or Calvin Chapman at the board of education office.

Judges code amended

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Judges across the state are not required to report rent, dividends or investment income as "compensation" under an amendment to the Code of Judicial Conduct approved Wednesday by the Missouri Supreme Court.

Under the court's code, which went into effect for all judges in the state July 1, judges mmust report "the nature of any activity for which they received compensation, and the name of the payor and the amount of compensationn so received."

But under the new amendment to the code, compensation does not include rent dividends ore investment income.

The Code of Judicial Conduct, which was approved Nov. 7, 1974, succeeds the old Canons of Judicial Ethics, and it was designed to preserve "the integrity and independence of the judiciary."

The amendment also changes from April 15 to May 1 the date which the judges' reports must be filed, and says the reports must be made with the clerk of the state Supreme Court rather than with the circuit court clerk in the circuit where the judge sits.

Another amendment approved by the high court, in an en banc decision signed by Chief Justice Robert E. Seiler, deletes a provision requiring any judge to disqualify himself from a case when lawyers practicing before him are relatives.

Christmas parade in Malden scheduled for 3 p.m. Dec. 6

MALDEN - The annual Malden Christmas Parade will be held Dec. 6. The parade is scheduled to arrive in the downtown area at 3 p.m.

A total of $175 will be awarded by the Chamber of Commerce to the three prize- winning floats, including $100 for first, $50 for second and $25 for third.

The Chamber of Commerce awards the prize money and the parade is managed by the Kiwanis Club. The parade is co-sponsored by the Chamber and the Kiwanis Club.

Some 66 letters have been mailed by the chamber to possible entrants and include 12 letters to service clubs and organizations, 11 to area high school bands, five to local high school queens, 24 to churches and 14 to scout leaders.

Lions Club hears about central dispatching number

Central dispatching, with one emergency telephone number for both fire and police calls, will help both departments, City Manager Charles Church told the Sikeston Lions Club Wednesday.

Church said the telephone will ring at the police dispatcher's desk and the officer will dispatch either policemen or firemen to the scene as needed.

The changeover to a central number, scheduled next month, is being done at little or no cost increase, he said.

The change, the first step toward a public safety department that combines the present police and fire departments, will result in better utilization of manpower in both departments and will provide one easy number for residents to remember, Church said.

Church said the city is presently reviewing its policy toward responding to out-of-town fire calls. The city now sends four men and an old pumper to rural fires. It charges $100 for any rural response.

Conserve Gas!

The Job You Save May Be Your Own

68 COOL IT

As you no doubt are aware, our area faces a severe shortage of natural gas that may cause our large industries to curtail operations. In an effort to stretch available supplies of natural gas, we have launched an all-out campaign to promote serious conservation.

Our effort includes:

* An advertising program utilizing 25 newspapers and 12 radio stations in Northeast Arkansas and Southeast Missouri.
* Distributing a conservation check-list through the public school systems.
* Distributing the same check-list through area industries, to promote employee involvement.
* Urging the involvement of city administrations throughout the territory.
* Utilizing our own employees as conservation advocates.

To be successful, however, we need the cooperation and involvement of every customer . . . including you. Saving gas will save you money, because you don't pay for what you don't use.

Make "conservation" a household word and a family effort.

Something important is at stake . . . jobs! Perhaps even yours.

Mighty Mississippi

Following a tour of the Sergeant Floyd Wednesday at New Madrid, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Chappell of New Madrid took the opportunity to view the mighty Mississippi River from the deck of a specially outfitted barge pushed by the Floyd. At mid- afternoon over 700 persons, including several groups of school students, had visited the floating museum which is on a tour sponsored by the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers as part of the national Bicentennial celebration. (Daily Standard photo)

Final revisions begin on utility billing practices

JEFFERSoN CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Public Service Commission and members of its staff have begun final revisions of a utility billing practices order aimed at standardizing the operations of all regulated gas, electric and water utilities in the state.

But in preparation for issuing the order by year's end, the commission decided Wednesday to obtain additonal information from the affected utilities on their estimates of additional costs to comply with the provisions and the basis for those estimates.

Commissioner James P. Mulvaney, former chairman of the Missouri House Consumer Protection Committee who developed the proposed general order, said he did not expect any major changes to be made in the original proposal.

Mulvaney indicated, however, that there could be some revision in provisions involving minimum bill payment periods, estimated billing and late payment charges.

Under the present proposal, customers would have 21 days in which to pay their bills before being assessed a maximum late payment charge of 1.5 per cent a month. Mulvaney said the payment period may be extended to 25 days. Late payment charges for the companies assessing them are not made after 10 days.

Companies would be limited in the amount of deposits they could require for service connections and would have to pay 8 per cent annual interest on the deposit.

The order also includes guidelines on customer complaint procedures and discontinuation of service.

While comments on the proposal submitted by utilities have not been favorable, Mulvaney said that "except for a few things, I think we're talking about good business practices for the companies."

A major requirement of the companies under the order would be the publication and distribution to all customers of a pamphlet detailing the individual utility's bill practices and procedures in layman's terms.

That would include complaint procedures and the address of the Public Service Commission.

Mulvaney wants the order to go into effect before the end of the year in order to avoid a four-month or more delay that will result from implementation of a new state law involving administrative rules and regulations. That law, which goes into effect Jan. 1, requires all rules of state agencies to be published by the secretary of state before they can go into effect and the delay is expected because of the time needed to publish the first edition.

Women offenders ignored by officials

NEW YORK (AP) — Women are going into crime in a bigger way but law enforcement officials are ignoring it, the deputy chief of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration said today.

Criminologists have done little, if any, research to determine why some women turn to crime and what might be done to prevent it, and the courts and prison system pay little attention to the particular needs of women offenders, said Charles R. Work in a speech prepared for regional LEAA administrators.

In addition, he said, law enforcement officials have failed to provide equal job opportunities for women and have neglected the women victims of rape and other crimes especially directed at them.

He said the criminal justice system "is a system run by males, predominantly for males. Consequently, it has demonstrated little concern with or interest in the problems of women — either as offenders, victims or as employes."

Work spoke on his last day in office. He submitted his resignation about a month ago and plans to join a private Washington law firm.

He said an LEAA task force on women has found that "law enforcement officials are largely unaware of the status and needs of women in all facets of the criminal justice system."

Women and crime have received recent attention following the federal indictments in California earlier this year of Lynette Fromme and Sara Jane Moore on charges of trying to kill President Ford.

FBI figures indicate that the number of crimes committed by women soared 246 per cent between 1960 and 1972, although women still commit far fewer crimes than men do, he noted.

FBI crime statistics released this week showed that the number of women arrested in 1974 was 9 per cent greater than the number arrested the previous year. The number of men arrested rose 2 per cent during the same period.

During the past five years, "arrests of males were up 35 per cent and female arrests increased 68 per cent" for the seven crime categories measured, the FBI report said.

Work said several recent studies indicate that women who commit crimes often are poor and unemployed. But he said that few prisons "offer any meaningful educational or vocational opportunities for women.

There are almost 16,000 inmates in federal, state and local prisons for women.

Getting married?

The Daily Standard, 205 S. New Madrid St., now has new wedding forms available at the front office or at the women's desk. Business hours are from 7 a.m., to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Forms will be mailed if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is provided.

The deadline for weddings is three weeks after date of wedding. Pictures will be returned if a self-addressed, stamped envelope large enough to hold a picture is supplied. Color pictures are discouraged. There is no charge for running a wedding.We are happy to publish it.

Couples pay tribute to marriage

Mr. and Mrs. Walliam Malloy of Gray Ridge recently celebrated their 50th anniversary at an open house hosted by their children in the couple's home. Malloy wed the former Tellie Martin Nov. 16, 1925 in Jerusalem, Ark. The couple has lived in the area since 1946. Malloy retired eight years ago from farming. The Malloys have 10 children: George Malloy of Little Rock, Ark.; Frank and James Malloy, Mrs. Henrietta Brown and Mrs. Etta Mae Ritchie of Gray Ridge; Quentin Malloy of Essex; Ernest "Butch" Malloy, Route One, and Mrs. Anna Pearson, 411 Kendall St., Sikeston; Mrs. Hazel Vent of New Madrid; and Mrs. Nancy Mekin of Benton, Ark.; plus 38 grandchildren and 11 great- grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmus Lee, 402 E. Kathleen St., recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary at a dinner hosted by their children at the Ramada Inn. Lee married the former Altha McGill Nov. 1, 1925 at Benton and the couple has been Sikeston residents for more than 50 years. Lee retired Dec. 3, 1971 from the now defunct International Shoe Co. The couple has two children: Jerry Lee of Cape Girardeau and Mrs. Sue Leigh of Texarkana, Ark.; plus five grandchildren.

What's happening in the area

Daughters of Isabella will hold a craft auction at 7:30 p.m., tonight at the Knights of Columbus Hall.

Monday, the Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary will meet at 6 p.m. for a potluck dinner and white elephant exchange.

Girl Scout booklet lists travel ideas

Senior and Cadette Girl Scouts of the Cotton Boll Girl Scout Council have travel opportunities through the Girl Scout Runways publication, as exciting a publication as the most recent Christmas gift catalogue. The publication is brim full of national and international events to which the girls may apply. The opportunities range in scope from sessions featuring a study of Indian culture in Sangam, Poona, India: The touring of Indian ruins, attendance of fiestas and working in urban and rural service projects at "Our Cabana" in Cuervavaca, Mexico; skiing and mountain climbing with trained instructors at "Our Chalet", Adelboden, Switzerland; walking through the pages of colonial history in Pennsylvania for "1776 All Over Again,"; "Summer of '76 in Washington, D.C., and exploring the "Riches of the Rockies" in Colorado Springs, Colo. Application deadline in the council office is Nov. 30.

There's more. The Girl Scouts have the opportunity to apply as aides to handicapped girls in which they will use their skills to help handicapped campers have fun at a camp near Kansas City; "Climb and Canoe a Mile Hi" in the shadows of the Great Continental Divide; "Do a Doodle-Le-Dom" a dramatic improvisation to express their thoughts through modern dance at the event in Cleveland; and a choice of other experiences that will be challenging, broadening in scope, exciting and interesting.

DEAR POLLY — We always keep a pan of water on or near the stove. When a pan is removed from a hot burner we put this pan of water on the turned off burner so no one will touch a hot burner by mistake.

When I finish baking there is usually heat left in the oven so I put any wet dish towel I have over the door. It is dry and ready to use in no time. — KIM

Household hints

To store fruit cake, wrap snugly in aluminum foil or plastic wrap. Some cooks wrap cakes in cheesecloth, then add a sprinkling of sherry or brandy before or during storage. Keep the wrapped cakes in a cool but not freezing place. Two or three days before serving, put them in the refrigerator.

Ann Landers

Young woman wants even frontage

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 18-year- old girl with a terrible problem. I'm normal in every way but one -- one breast is much smaller than the oher. When I say "smaller," I mean half the size.

I'm sure there is no way to get the larger one to shrink, so the best solution would be to get the smaller one to grow. Is there such a thing as a hormone cream that might do the job.. Please give me an answer. If you say the cream will work I'll send away for it no matter how expensivse it is. Thank you, Ann. – Unbalanced In Santa Monica

Dear Un: Your problem cannot be solved by a hormone cream, so please don't throw away money on useless junk.

My advice is to see your family doctor. Ask him to recommend a plastic surgeon who does silicone implants. This procedure on the smaller breast could be a godsend to a young woman such as you. Good luck.

Dear Ann Landers: While walking home from the library today I passed a group of young boys. They followed behind me and started to yell out gutter language – four- letter words.

I've always believed that the best method of handling an insult of any kind is to remain silent. I did not turn around nor did I respond to my tormentors in any way. Instead, I turned off the path at the first opportunity and took an alternate route home.

I'm putting aside the obvious --that their parents have failed in their responsibility to these twisted kids. What I need to know is this: did I , as an adult, do the right thing by ignoring their crudity.. Should I have turned around and reprimanded them somehow.. – Troubled In Retrospect

Dear Troubled: You don't say how old those "kids" were -- but in this day and age, youngsters have been known to carry knives, and even guns. In my opinion you were smart to keep walking.

Dear Ann Landers: Our next-door neighbors are rather nice people and we have become somewhat friendly. It seems they fell in arrears with the telephone company about four months ago and their phone was disconnected.

My husband and I didn't mind too much when they asked if they could use our phone several times a day. But now it seems they've given our number to several of their friends and relatives. We have been receiving calls for them at all hours of the day and night. This means we must send one of our children to their house to get them - or we have to go ourselves, if it is after the children's bedtime.

Frankly, it's becoming a terrible nuisance. How can we tell these folks we don't wish to continue the arrangement without altering our relationship.. We don't want to make enemies. – Walking On Eggs.

Dear Eggs: Your neighbors have gone far beyond the boundaries of friendship. They are exploiting you shamelessly and you must be saints or fools to tolerate it. Tell them at once you are not able to continue the paging service because it is too disruptive, and it also ties up your line. If this announcement alters the relationship, in my opinion you're lucky.

Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I need help right away. I am desperate. Is there any organization on the idea of Alcoholic Anonymous, but someone I can talk to about personal problems over the telephone without giving names?

If a person has a drinking problem and stops, how soon will it be, even with a doctor's examination, that there is no trace of liquor in the system?

DEAR READER — Different communities have different services available. Look in the white pages of your telephone directory for Mental Health which may be the beginning title for a group available to provide some professional help. Otherwise, you might call your county medical society office and see if they know of a service available in your community.

There are some crisis center organizations in some cities, and even telephone services just to cheer people up, but many communities do not have these organizations, yet. I think you should try to find a community mental health clinic and talk to someone. You won't be able to tell them anything they haven't heard before.

Your letter does not explain who is having the alcohol problem, but Alcoholics Anonymous is very successful in helping a lot of people, and I wouldn't overlook it.

Alcohol is metabolized as is other food. The alcohol itself should be gone within 24 hours, but the effects may last a lot longer — the liver damage, brain damage, stomach inflammation and whole, long, sorry list of things that alcohol can do to the human body. I would suggest you send 50 cents for The Health Letter number 1-4, Alcohol, Whiskey, Gin, Vodka, Rum, Wine, Beer.

What's the law?

The case of the taxi cab driver

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Thelma entered a taxi cab looking as pretty as a package. When the driver tried to unwrap her, however, she screamed, kicked and fought her way out of the vehicle. And, upon recovering from her harrowing experience, she sued the owner of the cab company for her injuries and other damages.

"The driver was a cad," complained Thelma in court. "While I've lost many things in taxi cabs, it was the first time I thought I was going to lose my life."

"That's because the driver apparently lost his head," responded the owner of the cab company. "But, certainly, I can't be blamed for that. I hire drivers to operate my cabs and not on my customers. If a driver makes a pass at a customer, it's not my fault since it's not within the scope of his employment. Consequently, I can't be held liable for what happened to poor Thelma."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you hold the owner liable for the conduct of his taxi cab driver?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that the owner of a taxi company is liable for the misconduct of a driver while engaged in the performance of a contract of carriage. If a passenger is assaulted and insulted through a driver's negligence or willful misconduct, noted the judge, the owner is accountable.

Travel funds for year nearly gone with ¾ left

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — With three-quarters of the fiscal year remaining, nearly all of a $20,000 appropriation for travel has been used by 10 Missouri legislators and two of the governor's appointees to the state Commission on Interstate Cooperation.

Because of trips to Alaska, Canada, Colorado, Pennsylvania and Iowa, only $1,411 of a $20,000 appropriation to the commission is left for the rest of the fiscal year.

The Interestate Cooperation Commission paid $8,100 of its appropriation as part of its share of the costs of the National Conference of the Commission of Uniform State Laws which met in Quebec, Canada in August. The rest of the expenditures, more than $10,000 was used for five trips out of the state by 10 legislators and two appointees of Gov. Christopher S. Bond.

According to state accounting records, those using the travel expenses were Rep. Walter Meyer, D-Bellefontaine Neighbors; Rep. Dan Harjmon, R-Noel; Rep. Nathaniel Rivers, D-St. Louis; House Speaker Richard Rabbitt; Rep. Richard DeCoster, D-Canton; Rep. William Raisch, R-Affton; Rep. S.L. Piekarski, D-St. Louis; Rep. Phillip Scaglia, D-Kansas City; Sen. Donald Gralike, D-St. Louis and Sen. Maurice Schechter, D-Creve Coeur.

Meyer, Harmon and Gralike spent four days in Anchorage, Alaska in September, attending the western regional conference of the Counncil of State Government.

Gralike's expenses amounted to $715, Harmon's were $749 and Meyer said he spent $836. Gralike and Meyer also attended the National Legislators' Conference in Philadelphia last month, and were joined by Rep. Rabbitt, D-St. Louis and Rivers.

The travel expenses for the Philadelphia trip were: Gralike, $493, Me meyer, $442, ;4-??855, $362 And Rivers, $347.

At a Council of State Governments meeting at Lake Okoboji, Iowa for four days in August, Gralike filed expenses of $458; Rivers $382; Schechter, $370, Raisch, $447 and Meyer, $485.

DeCsoter went on from Iowa to a state council committee meeting in Denver annd billed the state $657 for the entire trip.

Piekarski and Scaglia also attended the Denver meeting, spending $312 and $408 respectively, according to state records.

Aslo in Agusts, three officials were at the Quebec, Canada session. They were Rabbitt and Webster Groves attorney John F. Arnold and U.S. District Judge Floyd Gibson of Kansas City.

Arnold and Gibson are Bond's appointees to the Interstwte Cooperation Commission.

For the Canada trip, the state reimbursed Rabbitt $537, Arnold $640 and Gibson $794. Arnold also submitted a $990 bill to the state for attending the national conference last year in Honolulu.

Rabbitt said the expenditures were "justified."

"It's only a $20,000 expense in a $2 billion budget," he said.

Meyer said he used the Alaska trip to find out about malpractice insurance.

"The Council on State Governments is the only place we get input from countrywide experiences," Meyer said.

Music pageant slated tonight

CAPE GIRARDEAU - The Central High School music department will present a Bicentennial celebration pageant at 7:30 p.m. today and Friday in the school auditorium. The musical pageant will depict the nation's history and will feature adults from the community as historical figures in the program as well as American music arrangements performed by the school choirs, concert band and orchestra.

The Cape Girardeau Bicentennial Committee is assisting Judy Williams, the school choral director, in presenting the performances.

Many personalities well-known in the community will portray such figures as Patrick Henry, Benjamin Franklin, Abigail Adams, George Washington, Thomas Jefferson and others.

Colorful authentic costuming will be used throughout the program, which is titled "The American Spirit" and written by Inez Smith, former chairman of the Central High School English department, assisted by Bob White and Mrs. Williams.

All tickets were to be sold in advance.

Proceeds from the pageant will help to send the school's chamber choir to Washinton, D, C., to perform at the national Jubilee choral festival Dec. 27-30.

Organizations or individuals interested in helping the group in its efforts should contact Mrs. Williams; the Rev. Robert Lange, chairman of the parents committeed, or Calvin Chapman at the board of education office.

Christmas parade in Malden scheduled for 3 p.m. Dec. 6

MALDEN - The annual Malden Christmas Parade will be held Dec. 6. The parade is scheduled to arrive in the downtown area at 3 p.m.

A total of $175 will be awarded by the Chamber of Commerce to the three prize- winning floats, including $100 for first, $50 for second and $25 for third.

The Chamber of Commerce awards the prize money and the parade is managed by the Kiwanis Club. The parade is cosponsored by the Chamber and the Kiwanis Club.

Some 66 letters have been mailed by the chamber to possible entrants and include 12 letters to service clubs and organizations, 11 to area high school bands, five to local high school queens, 24 to churches and 14 to scout leaders.

Lions Club hears about central dispatching number

Central dispatching, with one emergency telephone number for both fire and police calls, will help both departments, City Manager Charles Church told the Sikeston Lions Club Wednesday.

Church said the telephone will ring at the police dispatcher's desk and the officer will dispatch either policemen or firemen to the scene as needed.

The changeover to a central number, scheduled next month, is being done at little or no cost increase, he said.

The change, the first step toward a public safety department that combines the present police and fire departments, will result in better utilization of manpower in both departments and will provide one easy number for residents to remember, Church said.

Church said the city is presently reviewing its policy toward responding to out-of-town fire calls. The city now sends four men and an old pumper to rural fires. It charges $100 for any rural response.

Judges code amended

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Judges across the state are not required to report rent, dividends or investment income as "compensation" under an amendment to the Code of Judicial Conduct approved Wednesday by the Missouri Supreme Court.

Under the court's code, which went into effect for all judges in the state July 1, judges mmust report "the nature of any activity for which they received compensation, and the name of the payor and the amount of compensationn so received."

But under the new amendment to the code, compensation does not include rent dividends ore investment income.

The Code of Judicial Conduct, which was approved Nov. 7, 1974, succeeds the old Canons of Judicial Ethics, and it was designed to preserve "the integrity and independence of the judiciary."

The amendment also changes from April 15 to May 1 the date which the judges' reports must be filed, and says the reports must be made with the clerk of the state Supreme Court rather than with the circuit court clerk in the circuit where the judge sits.

Another amendment approved by the high court, in an en banc decision signed by Chief Justice Robert E. Seiler, deletes a provision requiring any judge to disqualify himself from a case when lawyers practicing before him are relatives.

Conserve Gas!

The Job You Save May Be Your Own

68 COOL IT

As you no doubt are aware, our area faces a severe shortage of natural gas that may cause our large industries to curtail operations. In an effort to stretch available supplies of natural gas, we have launched an all-out campaign to promote serious conservation.

Our effort includes:

* An advertising program utilizing 25 newspapers and 12 radio stations in Northeast Arkansas and Southeast Missouri.
* Distributing a conservation check-list through the public school systems.
* Distributing the same check-list through area industries, to promote employee involvement.
* Urging the involvement of city administrations throughout the territory.
* Utilizing our own employees as conservation advocates.

To be successful, however, we need the cooperation and involvement of every customer . . . including you. Saving gas will save you money, because you don't pay for what you don't use.

Make "conservation" a household word and a family effort.

Something important is at stake . . . jobs! Perhaps even yours.

South and Bootheel grid All-star teams selected

Bootheel and Southern division coaches of the SEMO conference met in Sikeston Tuesday night to name the All-Conference teams for the 1975 season. Surprisingly neither leader, Illmo-Scott City or East Prairie, was the best represented on the two teams. Doniphan had players named at 18 on the first and second offensive and defensive squads. The league champion Rams filled 16 spots. In the south, Caruthersville placed 13 players in positions among the elite. East Prairie only 12. No player in either division made both the first offensive and defensive teams.

Mighty Mississippi

Following a tour of the Sergeant Floyd Wednesday at New Madrid, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Chappell of New Madrid took the opportunity to view the mighty Mississippi River from the deck of a specially outfitted barge pushed by the Floyd. At mid- afternoon over 700 persons, including several groups of school students, had visited the floating museum which is on a tour sponsored by the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers as part of the national Bicentennial celebration. (Daily Standard photo)

Final revisions begin on utility billing practices

JEFFERSoN CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Public Service Commission and members of its staff have begun final revisions of a utility billing practices order aimed at standardizing the operations of all regulated gas, electric and water utilities in the state.

But in preparation for issuing the order by year's end, the commission decided Wednesday to obtain additonal information from the affected utilities on their estimates of additional costs to comply with the provisions and the basis for those estimates.

Commissioner James P. Mulvaney, former chairman of the Missouri House Consumer Protection Committee who developed the proposed general order, said he did not expect any major changes to be made in the original proposal.

Mulvaney indicated, however, that there could be some revision in provisions involving minimum bill payment periods, estimated billing and late payment charges.

Under the present proposal, customers would have 21 days in which to pay their bills before being assessed a maximum late payment charge of 1.5 per cent a month. Mulvaney said the payment period may be extended to 25 days. Late payment charges for the companies assessing them are not made after 10 days.

Companies would be limited in the amount of deposits they could require for service connections and would have to pay 8 per cent annual interest on the deposit.

The order also includes guidelines on customer complaint procedures and discontinuation of service.

While comments on the proposal submitted by utilities have not been favorable, Mulvaney said that "except for a few things, I think we're talking about good business practices for the companies."

A major requirement of the companies under the order would be the publication and distribution to all customers of a pamphlet detailing the individual utility's bill practices and procedures in layman's terms.

That would include complaint procedures and the address of the Public Service Commission.

Mulvaney wants the order to go into effect before the end of the year in order to avoid a four-month or more delay that will result from implementation of a new state law involving administrative rules and regulations. That law, which goes into effect Jan. 1, requires all rules of state agencies to be published by the secretary of state before they can go into effect and the delay is expected because of the time needed to publish the first edition.

Jets' Winner gets the axe

NEW YORK (AP) — Charley Winner may be the first of many changes the New York Jets make in an effort to salvage what is left of the 1975 National Football League season.

"You can't go out and make wholesale changes at this stage," said new Jets' head Coach Ken Shipp, named Wednesday to succeed Winner. "But ... if there are any more of these people (letting down), they will be let go."

Shipp, who was hired to his first NFL job by Winner seven years ago, took the hard line when he was introduced as Winner's successor.

"The effort just hasn't been very good and I don't think the players have been playing up to their potential," he told a news conference. "If it needs more discipline, I'll do it. And if you ask me if I will be tougher than Charley was, the answer is yes."

The Jets finished last season with six straight victories and looked forward to being a contender in the NFL's American Conference East Division this season.

"In preseason we beat the (Minnesota) Vikings, Washington and St. Louis," said Jets' President Phil Iselin. "We seemed to have a good team, but something went wrong."

After six straight losses, the Jets are 2-7 for the season and have given up 293 points, the most surrendered by any team in the NFL. On Monday, Iselin told The Associated Press he was very disappointed with the Jets' performance, saying they lacked motivation. But he had insisted that Winner was not going to be fired during the season.

Winner, who did not attend the news conference, said he was surprised about the decision, despite the circumstances. He was in the middle of a three-year contract.

"I was disappointed," Winner said. "I didn't have to come here. I came after I was assured that I was that I was their man and that I'd have time to build a team."

Shipp started at St. Louis under Winner in 1968, moving to the New Orleans Saints in 1970. He came to the Jets in 1973 and is in his third season as receiver coach and offensive coordinator. He is credited with the development of tight end Richard Caster and wide receivers David Knight and Jerome Barkum, key performers with quarterback Joe Namath in the Jets' pass-oriented attack.

George Morris, 706 Allen Blvd. killed this 12 point buck Monday as the buck entered a field from the woods near Mountain View. The deer weighed almost 200 pounds. There were seven others in the party and they got four deer. (Daily Standard photo)

Thorn blasts refs; Denver blasts Spirits

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "I don't usually yell at referees. Those are the first two technicals I've had all year," an abashed Rod Thorn said.

The self-recriminations of Thorn, the coach of St. Louis, were those he suffered Wednesday night after a 119-106 Spirits loss to the Denver Nuggets in the American Basketball Association.

"I hate to say it, but I think when I got the second technical it turned the game around," said Thorn, whose emotional outbursts occurred in the closing quarter.

"I think in the second half it was almost always a three-point game," he reflected. "Then, instead of being 97-97 it was 99-97 with the technicals and they pulled away."

The breaking point for the 34-year-old Thorn came at 6:05 of the final period after Denver edged ahead by 97-95 on Byron Beck's jump shot.

Then, after Bobby Jones blocked a drive by Maurice Lucas, Thorn exploded violently in the absence of a foul and was called for his first technical.

Beck calmly sank Denver's first penalty shot and Gus Gerard soon afterward struck from the baseline for St. Louis.

Only 19 seconds after that, however, referee Joe Belmont whistled Thorn for another technical and Denver bounded away on Dan Issel's free shot and four quick points by Ralph Simpson.

"He (Belmont) saw me jump up and slam my feet on the floor. I didn't really say anything," maintained Thorn, who in the latter instance had protested a double-dribble called against the Spirits' Freddie Lewis.

"The game meant a lot to us," Thorn said soberly. "It was an important game for us. I was pleased with the way we played."

Denver's triumph, its sixth in a row, was achieved in the absence of Spirits scoring star Marvin Barnes for a third straight game and in spite of Lucas' 28 points and 18 rebounds.

"I think with Marvin playing we're a better team because he's a good rebounder," Thorn said, "but this is still the best we've played since against New York two weeks ago."

Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I need help right away. I am desperate. Is there any organization on the idea of Alcoholic Anonymous, but someone I can talk to about personal problems over the telephone without giving names?

If a person has a drinking problem and stops, how soon will it be, even with a doctor's examination, that there is no trace of liquor in the system?

DEAR READER — Different communities have different services available. Look in the white pages of your telephone directory for Mental Health which may be the beginning title for a group available to provide some professional help. Otherwise, you might call your county medical society office and see if they know of a service available in your community.

There are some crisis center organizations in some cities, and even telephone services just to cheer people up, but many communities do not have these organizations, yet. I think you should try to find a community mental health clinic and talk to someone. You won't be able to tell them anything they haven't heard before.

Your letter does not explain who is having the alcohol problem, but Alcoholics Anonymous is very successful in helping a lot of people, and I wouldn't overlook it.

Alcohol is metabolized as is other food. The alcohol itself should be gone within 24 hours, but the effects may last a lot longer — the liver damage, brain damage, stomach inflammation and whole, long, sorry list of things that alcohol can do to the human body. I would suggest you send 50 cents for The Health Letter number 1-4, Alcohol, Whiskey, Gin, Vodka, Rum, Wine, Beer.

What's the law?

The case of the taxi cab driver

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Thelma entered a taxi cab looking as pretty as a package. When the driver tried to unwrap her, however, she screamed, kicked and fought her way out of the vehicle. And, upon recovering from her harrowing experience, she sued the owner of the cab company for her injuries and other damages.

"The driver was a cad," complained Thelma in court. "While I've lost many things in taxi cabs, it was the first time I thought I was going to lose my life."

"That's because the driver apparently lost his head," responded the owner of the cab company. "But, certainly, I can't be blamed for that. I hire drivers to operate my cabs and not on my customers. If a driver makes a pass at a customer, it's not my fault since it's not within the scope of his employment. Consequently, I can't be held liable for what happened to poor Thelma."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you hold the owner liable for the conduct of his taxi cab driver?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that the owner of a taxi company is liable for the misconduct of a driver while engaged in the performance of a contract of carriage. If a passenger is assaulted and insulted through a driver's negligence or willful misconduct, noted the judge, the owner is accountable.

Crucial Oklahoma-Nebraska battle set for Saturday

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Second-ranked Nebraska and No. 7 Oklahoma, both irked by the Sugar Bowl's snub of the Big Eight Conference, battle each other Saturday in a football game that will determine the championship and who goes to the Orange Bowl.

The contest will be played at Oklahoma. Nebraska is 6-0 in the conference and 10-0 overall. If the Huskers win or tie, they will lock up the league title and spend New Year's Day sparring with the loser of Saturday's game between No. 1 Ohio State and No. 4 Michigan.

If Oklahoma, 5-1 and 9-1, conquers Nebraska, the Sooners get the trip to the land of oranges and will share the championship with the Huskers. The loser has been invited to the Fiesta Bowl. Oklahoma has announced it would accept the Fiesta invitation but Nebraska wants the Orange Bowl or nothing.

Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl-bound Colorado, ranked ninth and 4-2 and 8-2, is host Saturday to Kansas State, 0-6 and 3-7. Missouri goes to Kansas, and the winner tackles Pittsburgh in the Sun Bowl. The Tigers are 3-3 and 6-4, having the same record as Kansas. Oklahoma State, 2-4 and 6-4, invades Iowa State, 1-5 and 4-6.

"Our players are looking forward to playing Oklahoma," says Nebraska Coach Tom Osborne. "We can't beat Oklahoma without playing a very sound and complete game ... offensively, defensively, kicking game."

Coach Barry Switzer of the Sooners insists this is "the best Nebraska team since 1971. I can't rank 'em with that team. They don't have a Johnny Rodgers but they have the Jeff Kinneys, who are more of the Steve Owens mold, who can six and seven-yard you to death."

Switzer regards Nebraska as "awesome on defense ... they have great quickness and speed. We're going to have to play the best we've played all year all of the game. We had a great first half last week at Missouri. Against Nebraska, we need two halves like that."

Colorado, certain of no worse than a tie for third and possibly second, should have little trouble with the crippled Wildcats, who have scored only one touchdown and only 16 points in their last seven games.

Missouri, ranked 18th, may have injured fullback John Blakeman ready for the Jayhawks, who hold the only victory over Oklahoma. The game may develop into a struggle between the passing of Missouri's Steve Pisarkiewicz and the running of Kansas' Nolan Cromwell and Laverne Smith.

Oklahoma State hasn't won at Iowa State since 1969 but Coach Jim Stanley notes that a victory by the Cowboys would "give us the most single season victories we'v ehad since 1958."

34 ROOKIES STARTED

NEW YORK (AP) — Thirty-four rookies gained starting positions in the National Football League this season among 208 first-year players. Among the starters this fall was Atlanta's quarterback Steve Bartkowski, the NFL number one draft choice.

SeMo State seeks to clinch MIAA title

CAPE GIRARDEAU — From conference doormat to king of the road. That's the rags to riches story of Southeast Missouri State University's football team.

Back on Oct. 5 the Indians of Coach Jim Lohr had the worst record of any team in the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association with no wins and four losses.

Today the Indians have reeled off six straight victories, they are unbeaten in conference action, and they are assured of at least a tie for the MIAA championship.

That assurance was gained Saturday (Nov. 15) when the Tribe downed Lincoln University in Jefferson City 39-7, setting the stage for a showdown this weekend when Northeast Missouri State University of Kirksville visits Houck Stadium.

The 1:30 p.m. encounter Saturday (Nov. 22) is a "must game for each team.

The Bulldogs under first-year-coach Ron Taylor have a 7-3 overall record, but they have lost one MIAA game. So, to gain a share of the crown, they must win the season finale, while the Indians must win to earn the title outright.

Coach Lohr said Monday that he felt rather good about having a share of the conference crown "in hand," but added, "We want to be greedy and have the whole thing to ourselves."

The Indian chief was generally well pleased with his team's performance against Lincoln. However, he commented that the defensive unit, even though it allowed only seven points, was still not as sharp as he would like it to be.

Earlier, according to Lohr, when the Indians were beginning to climb back from their disastrous start, the Tribe was playing much better defense than it has in the past two games.

Lincoln, whose record dipped to 3-6-1 after Saturday's loss, did a good job of holding the Tribe in check during the first half, allowing only 10 points. However, the Tigers let Southeast Missouri State have 17 points in the third quarter and 12 in the fourth stanza, and the Indians finished up with 306 yards rushing and 158 yards passing to a minus eight yards rushing and 106 yards passing for the Tigers.

The highlight of the contest was junior Mike Wood's 61-yard field goal, which opened Saturday's scoring. The kick by Wood, a junior from Kirkwood, eclipsed the University's old record of 54 yards which Wood established just a couple of weeks ago.

The collegiate record for field goal distance is 63 yards.

Asked about the 61-yard attempt which proved successful, Coach Lohr said, "I wouldn't have sent him in if I hadn't thought he could make it." The coach then added, "I don't have any doubt that he can kick a 70-yarder."

Cardinals will tackle NY Jets Sunday

NEW YORK, N.Y.--The St. Louis Football Cardinals try to keep undisputed possession of first place in the National Football Conference's Eastern Division Sunday when they return to Shea Stadium for the second time in a month to take on the New York Jets.

Kickoff is set for noon (CDT) with the game to be televised regionally by CBS and broadcast over the Cardinal radio network.

The Cardinals, who never played in Shea Stadium until this season, defeated the New York Giants, 20-13, there on October 25. This week's game marks only the second time the Big Red and Jets have met in regular season competition, with the Cardinals winning 17-10 in 1971 in St. Louis.

St. Louis will take a 7-2 record into the game and a one-game lead in the rugged NFC East over Dallas and Washington, both with 6-3 marks. The Big Red lived up to their billing as the cardiac Cardinals last week with a 20-17 overtime victory over the Redskins to give them sole control of first place.

It marked the third straight week the Cardinals have come from behind for a victory. On November 2, the Big Red trailed New England 17-7 in the third quarter but rebounded for a 24-17 victory, and a week later the Cardinals fell behind Philadelphia 23-7 in the third quarter but won, 24-23, on a 30-yard field goal by Jim Bakken on the final play of the game.

Against the Redskins, the Cardinals trailed 14-3 in the third quarter and 17-10 in the game's last five minutes before mounting another comeback effort. The Big Red gained a 17-17 tie with only 20 seconds remaining in regulation time, and on a fourth and goal situation, quarterback Jim Hart hit wide receiver Mel Gray with a six-yard touchdown pass.

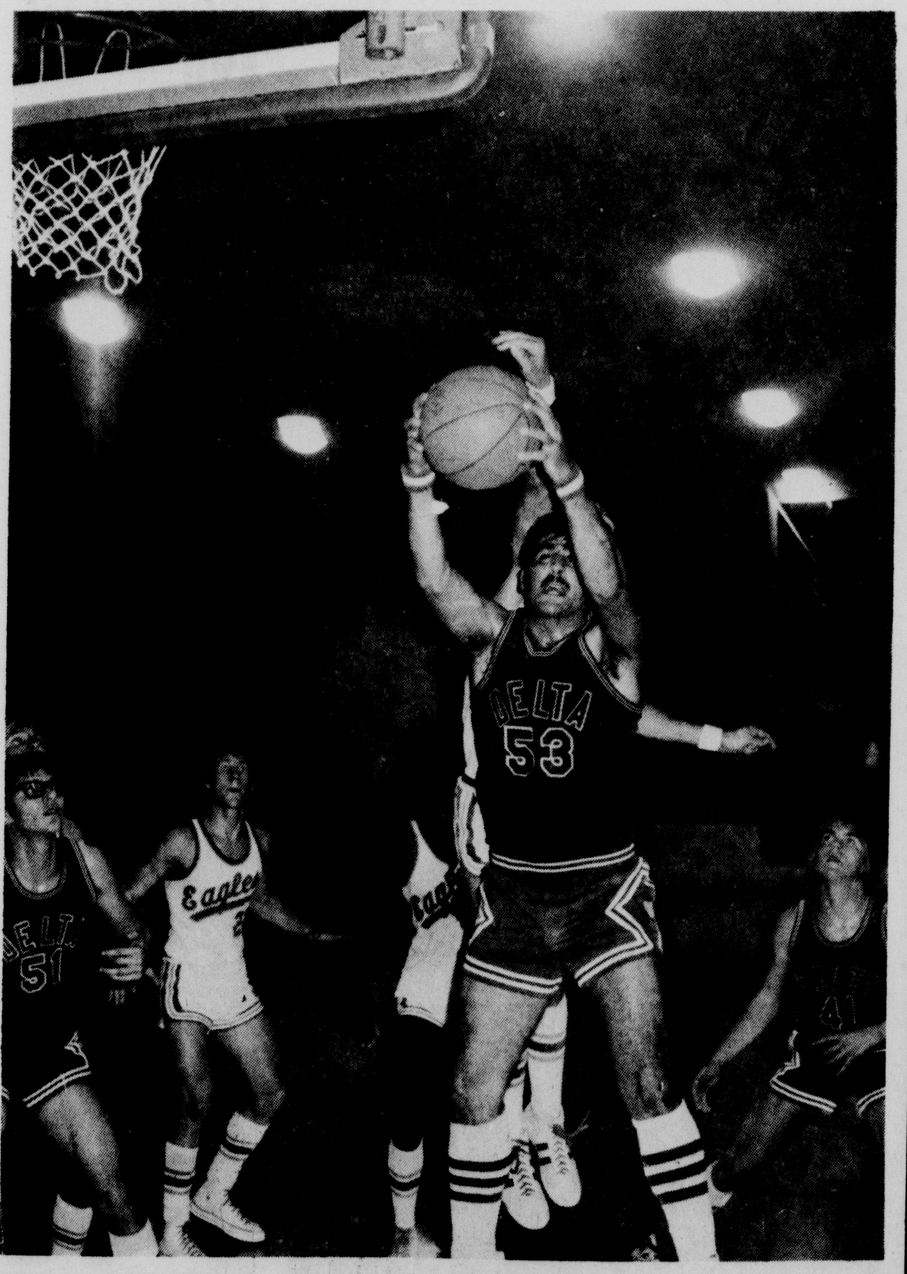

The Big Red won the overtime coin flip, and drove 55 yards in 11 plays to the Washington 20-yard line when Bakken entered the game and booted a 37-yard field goal through the uprights for the dramatic victory. It marked the third game Bakken has won for the Cardinals with a field goal.

The victory gave the Cardinals a 5-2 division record with only one division game remaining--at--home against Dallas on December 7. The Redskins, who still must play the Cowboys and Philadelphia, are 4-2 in division play, and Dallas, who still must play each division rival again, is 3-1.

Following the Jets' game, the Cardinals will stay in the AFC Eastern Division, and with only three days rest, take on the Buffalo Bills at 2:35 p.m. (CST) on Thanksgiving Day, November 27 in Busch Memorial Stadium.

Tickets remain on sale for the game, and the Cardinal Ticket Office will be open this Saturday and Sunday from 9 AM to 5 PM for the midweek game. Only single tickets remain for the Cardinals' final regular season home game on December 7 against Dallas.

The Big Red also announced that ticket prices for the 1976 season will remain the same as in 1975.

South and Bootheel grid All-star teams selected

Bootheel and Southern division coaches of the SEMO conference met in Sikeston Tuesday night to name the All-Conference teams for the 1975 season. Surprisingly neither leader, Illmo-Scott City or East Prairie, was the best represented on the two teams. Doniphan had players named at 18 on the first and second offensive and defensive squads. The league champion Rams filled 16 spots. In the south, Caruthersville placed 13 players in positions among the elite. East Prairie only 12. No player in either division made both the first offensive and defensive teams.

Deaths

J. A. Butler

MALDEN--Joseph Abner Butler, 54, a retired farmer, died Thursday of an apparent heart attack while deer hunting near Piedmont.

Born April 29, 1921 near Bear Creek, Ala., he was the son of the late Joseph A. and Fannie Kelly Butler.

In 1944, he married Mary Elien Stabblefield. Following a divorce, he later was united with Mariece Garner, who survives.

Other survivors include three sons, Jack and John Butler of St. Louis and Gary Garner of Paris, Ark.; five daughters, Mrs. Nora Jean Bugbee of Flint, Mich., and Mrs. Connie Bays and Sharon, Terri and Sherry Garner of Malden; two brothers, Monty and Jim Butler of Malden; and 12 grandchildren.

One son preceded him in death.

Friends may call at Bradshaw Funeral Home, where services are scheduled at 2 p.m. Friday with the Rev. James Hamlett officiating.

Burial will be in Memorial Park Cemetery.

Hallie Guiling

DIEHLSTADT---Hallie H. Guiling, 65, a retired farmer, died at 2:20 p.m. Wendesday at Sells Nursing Home at Matthews, following an extended illness.

Born April 29, 1910 in Bee Branch, Ark., son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Adrain Guiling, he lived in Diehlstadt 34 years, was a farmer until retirement in 1968, and a member of Charleston Church of Christ.

Annie Horton

EAST PRAIRIE--Annie Eugenia Horton, 85, of 330 Wilburn St. died at 12:05 a.m. today at Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston, following an extended illness.

Born April 10, 1890 in Alabama, she was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jim Johnson. She was a member of the First Church of God.

On Dec. 28, 1912 she married L.L. Horton, who survives.

Also surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Leroy Givens of East Prairie; one son, Alton Horton of East Prairie; three sisters, Mrs. Tommy James and Mrs. Odie Kinley of Steele; and Mrs. Lottie Green of Columbus, S.C.; and four grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

The body is at Shelby Funeral Home where arrangements are incomplete.

Battery and CB stolen

An auto battery and a citizens band radio were reported stolen in separate thefts Wednesday, according to police.

A battery valued at $45 was taken from a car owned by Wanda Lewis, 1611 E. Kathleen Ave., between 12:30 p.m. and 9 p.m. while the car was parked in the parking lot of Kingsway Plaza Mall. A citizens band radio valued at $249 was taken from a car belonging to Myra Lumm, 520 W. Washington St., East Prairie, about 2:50 p.m., while the car was parked at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Zoning change recommended

The Planning and Zoning Commission recommended Wednesday that a strip of property along the east side of First Street between Wakefield and Smith streets be rezoned from single family to commercial.

The commission action came one day after the regularly scheduled meeting which took no action because of a lack of a quorum.

write a two-week termination notice for Pritchett, which he placed in an envelope and took to the packing department where Pritchett was working.

After handing him the envelope, Hubbard said Pritchett grabbed him by the shirt and began pushing him around. "He told me to hit him, and I told him no, turn me loose and I'll go back to the office and forget it," Hubbard said.

During the scuffle, Hubbard said he was pushed over some barrels. A cart with steel pipes was nearby and Hubbard said he picked one up while lying at a 45-degree angle and struck Pritchett once across the arm.

He further stated on direct questioning that he saw what he first thought was a blackjack and threw up his left arm, but was shot in the wrist and later in the back, in the right shoulder area, and then shot in the upper left shoulder from the front. Hubbard also said he heard the gun snap twice and was struck in the back of the head with the butt of the gun.

Hubbard reportedly then walked back to his office, where he was laid on a desk by employes before being taken to the hospital in Sikeston.

Pritchett, according to testimony, owns 25 per cent of the company stock, and his brother, Harley Pritchett Jr., owns 20 per cent. The remaining 55 per cent is owned by Hubbard and his wife.

Testimony by Hudson, Ditto and Steve McGill, employes of Stanley Muffler Co., indicated the two men had argued at some time prior to the shooting. None of the men saw the entire fight and subsequent shooting because they were in various parts of the plant when the fight began.

They did say they saw Hubbard hit Pritchett with a piece of steel pipe and identified a pipe entered by the defense which was approximately 30 inches long and two and a half inches in diameter as looking more like the right size than the pipe entered into evidence by the state, which was about 20 inches long and one and three-fourths inches in diameter.

The smaller pipe was identified by Hubbard as the size he used in striking Pritchett.

Self-defense was the basis for the defense of Pritchett, who testified in his own behalf. Other defense witnesses included Dr. T. P. Fenton of Charleston, who said he treated Pritchett the afternoon of Nov. 27 for multiple bruises to the back of his left shoulder, left rib cage and left elbow and arm; Albert Zilafro of East Prairie, a former employe of Stanley Muffler Co., who witnessed the fight from about five to six feet; H. H. Russell, Frank Carter and W. J. Morgan Sr. of East Prairie; and Elgin McMikle of Charleston, who each testified that Pritchett's reputation as a peaceful, nonviolent, law-abiding and truthfu' person was good.

Pritchett, a bachelor, formerly school teacher and Marine, testified he was employed 21 years by McDonnell Douglas Aircraft in St. Louis as an administrative engineer before terminating his employment to come to East Prairie to work at Stanley Muffler Co.

According to his testimony, he was asked by Hubbard to invest money in the corporation when it was organized in 1971. He said he subscribed for 25 per cent of the stock at a cost of $12,500 early in 1971, brought equipment for the plant from St. Louis after working at McDonnell Douglas and worked weekends and during his vacation while construction of the company was under way.

He further said he had loaned the company about $50,000 prior to the shooting incident, which has not been repaid, and that he did not draw a salary from the company.

The relationship between the two men was good until January or February of 1974, according to Prtichett, who said Hubbard became cool toward him because he thought Pritchett had told his sister about his relationship with another woman. He also said he had voiced objections several occasions to Hubbard's spending of company money for bar bills, out-of-town trips and dog food and about his repeated intoxication.

Pritchett testified about three occasions in which Hubbard had made abusive and threatening remarks toward him. He said Hubbard had told him during their discussions about plant operations that he would run the company any way he wanted to and if he didn't like it, he could sell his stock and get out.

Testifying about the shooting, Pritchett said Hubbard brought an envelop to him that morning, pushed it toward him and said, "This is what you have been looking for and I'm going to give it to you to get rid of you."

The two began to scuffle, and Pritchett said he told Hubbard, "We can't have this; let's talk it out. I've got my life savings in the company and I'm not leaving.'"

He continued by saying he was scared for his life and thought that Hubbard was going to kill him. He also said he did not remember firing the gun and did not know that the bullets had struck Hubbard until told later by other employes.

Pritchett turned himself in at the East Prairie Police Department shortly after the shooting.

He is free on $5,000 bond, and a date for a new trial remains to be set.

Committee recommends expanded rules power

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Expanded power for the state Administrative Hearing Commission to determine validity of administrative rules and a proposed constitutional amendment allowing legislative repeal of rules without the governor's signature were recommended today by a special state Senate committee.

In its final report filed with the secretary of the senate, the committee also recommended a number of minor changes and clarifications for a new state law that will go into effect Jan. 1 as well as the requirement that all proposed administrative rules be accompanied by an estimate of their financial impact on government and the general public.

The recommended changes, developed by the six-member panel after six hearings and testimony from 41 witnesses, will be put in the form of three bills and the proposed constitutional amendment for consideration by the legislature when it convenes in January.

Noting that the proposed legislative changes are intended to make state agencies with rule-making powers "more responsive to the will of the people," the report said the committee found instances where agencies were "ignoring the will of the people and letting non-elected rule makers determine what they believe to be in the people's best interest, rather than letting the people themselves decide."

During its review, the committee found 309 different laws that gave rule making power to 71 separate state agencies. While the panel, headed by Springfield Republican Paul Bradshaw, said it believed the new law approved during the last legislative session will solve many problems resulting from administrative rule making, it said the additonal changes in the process would further improve it.

The new law requires all proposed rules to be published by the secretary of state before they can take effect, sets up a system for public comment on proposed rules, creates a central compilation of all rules and regulations in effect and establishes a joint legislative committee to continually review rules as they are promulgated.

The proposed amendments to that measure are aimed at clarifying its provisions so the law can be more efficiently administered.

Expanded jurisdiction for the Administrative Hearing Commission, which is now limited to settling disputes in licensing cases, was recommended because "it is undesirable for administrative agencies to pass judgment on their own actions, as now is true in certain instances."

To go with the increased duties, the committee also recommended a boost in pay for the hearing commissioner.

The proposed change in the state constitution, which would require voter approval, is intended to give the legislature, which delegates rule-making powers to state agencies, the authority to revoke rules unilaterally if its finds them unacceptable.

In the past two sessions, the legislature has unsuccessfully attempted to include such a provision in laws delegating rule-making power either because Gov. Christopher S. Bond has vetoed the bills or the method used would have required Bond's approval of the repeal anyway.

"In view of the proliferation of rule-making, the committee believes that the General Assembly should be granted broader powers to exercise oversight authority concerning the rule-making functions it has delegated to the executive branch," the report said.

5 injured in accidents

Five persons received minor injuries in three separate one-vehicle accidents Wednesday according to the state highway patrol.

At 11:45 a.m. 16 miles west of Doniphan on Highway 160, two Pontiac youths received minor injuries when Ricky Warden Blair, 17, lost control of his vehicle on a curve. The vehicle ran off the road and overturned.

Blair and a passenger, John Schultz, 18, were taken to Ripley County Hospital in Doniphan for treatment of minor injuries.

The driver of a pickup truck, James H. Miller, 36, and a passenger, Marie Myler, 51, both of Chaffee, received minor injuries in an accident at 12:55 p.m. one mile south of Chaffee on Highway 77 in Scott County.

The highway patrol said Miller's northbound vehicle skidded across the highway and struck an enbankment.

They were treated at Chaffee General Hospital and released.

David H. Powell, 69, of Kennett received minor injuries in a one-vehicle accident at 1:30 p.m. on Route P, 2.6 miles west of Senath.

The accident occurred when Powell turned his truck into a field road, and the truck missed the culvert and overturned on its side.

of Land and Water Conservation Funds from the U.S. Department of Interior's bureau of Outdoor Recreation.

The only other local areas to receive funds were Marston, $7,213 and Illmo-Scott City School District, $5,668.

Ayers. said development of Boon Park is expected to take the form of pavilions, picnic areas and tennis courts, but that he doesn't know when the city will receive word on whether or not the money is approved.

Plans also call for equipment to be purchased and located in the area at the West City Park where the road has been removed.

No work has been done on Boon Park because the board is waiting to see if the grant is approved, Ayers said. In the meantime, "we're just trying to improve what we have," he said.

Could you use four more exemptions on your Federal income taxes?

A husband and wife interested in a tax-deductible retirement program may now qualify for a Metropolitan Individual Retirement Annuity (IRA).

A working couple with no pension plan other than Social Security may each have a separate IRA and may both contribute up to the maximum based on their separate earnings: 15%, or up to $1,500—whichever is less. Together, they may annually contribute as much as $3,000 to their tax-sheltered retirement fund, if their earnings permit the maximum contribution by each.

And even if only a husband or wife is eligible, as a couple, they still enjoy added tax benefits with only one member of the family enrolled in an IRA.

Call me if you're interested in discussing the possibility of the equivalent of two or four more exemptions on your Federal income tax.

Jets' Winner gets the axe

NEW YORK (AP) — Charley Winner may be the first of many changes the New York Jets make in an effort to salvage what is left of the 1975 National Football League season.

"You can't go out and make wholesale changes at this stage," said new Jets' head Coach Ken Shipp, named Wednesday to succeed Winner. "But ... if there are any more of these people (letting down), they will be let go."

Shipp, who was hired to his first NFL job by Winner seven years ago, took the hard line when he was introduced as Winner's successor.

"The effort just hasn't been very good and I don't think the players have been playing up to their potential," he told a news conference. "If it needs more discipline, I'll do it. And if you ask me if I will be tougher than Charley was, the answer is yes."

The Jets finished last season with six straight victories and looked forward to being a contender in the NFL's American Conference East Division this season.

"In preseason we beat the (Minnesota) Vikings, Washington and St. Louis," said Jets' President Phil Iselin. "We seemed to have a good team, but something went wrong."

After six straight losses, the Jets are 2-7 for the season and have given up 293 points, the most surrendered by any team in the NFL. On Monday, Iselin told The Associated Press he was very disappointed with the Jets' performance, saying they lacked motivation. But he had insisted that Winner was not going to be fired during the season.

Winner, who did not attend the news conference, said he was surprised about the decision, despite the circumstances. He was in the middle of a three-year contract.

"I was disappointed," Winner said. "I didn't have to come here. I came after I was assured that I was that I was their man and that I'd have time to build a team."

Shipp started at St. Louis under Winner in 1968, moving to the New Orleans Saints in 1970. He came to the Jets in 1973 and is in his third season as receiver coach and offensive coordinator. He is credited with the development of tight end Richard Caster and wide receivers David Knight and Jerome Barkum, key performers with quarterback Joe Namath in the Jets' pass-oriented attack.

Thorn blasts refs; Denver blasts Spirits

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "I don't usually yell at referees. Those are the first two technicals I've had all year," an abashed Rod Thorn said.

The self-recriminations of Thorn, the coach of St. Louis, were those he suffered Wednesday night after a 119-106 Spirits loss to the Denver Nuggets in the American Basketball Association.

"I hate to say it, but I think when I got the second technical it turned the game around," said Thorn, whose emotional outbursts occurred in the closing quarter.

"I think in the second half it was almost always a three-point game," he reflected. "Then, instead of being 97-97 it was 99-97 with the technicals and they pulled away."

The breaking point for the 34-year-old Thorn came at 6:05 of the final period after Denver edged ahead by 97-95 on Byron Beck's jump shot.

Then, after Bobby Jones blocked a drive by Maurice Lucas, Thorn exploded violently in the absence of a foul and was called for his first technical.

Beck calmly sank Denver's first penalty shot and Gus Gerard soon afterward struck from the baseline for St. Louis.

Only 19 seconds after that, however, referee Joe Belmont whistled Thorn for another technical and Denver bounded away on Dan Issel's free shot and four quick points by Ralph Simpson.

"He (Belmont) saw me jump up and slam my feet on the floor. I didn't really say anything," maintained Thorn, who in the latter instance had protested a double-dribble called against the Spirits' Freddie Lewis.

"The game meant a lot to us," Thorn said soberly. "It was an important game for us. I was pleased with the way we played."

Denver's triumph, its sixth in a row, was achieved in the absence of Spirits scoring star Marvin Barnes for a third straight game and in spite of Lucas' 28 points and rebounds.

"I think with Marvin playir we're a better team becaus

he's a good rebounder," Thor said, "but this is still the be we've played since against Ne York two weeks ago."

Simon gets confused with money and singing

Rep. Paul Simon, that is.

For some time now, he's complained when newspaper readers scan only the headlines and wind up confusing his actions with those of Treasury Secretary William Simon.

Now students at Case Western Reserve University, planning a lecture series and hoping to hear the views of the Paul Simon who used to sing in the Simon and Garfunkel folk-rock duo, mailed a letter to Paul Simon of Carbondale, Ill., the congressman's home town.

Decorated denims emerging

By The Associated Press

Decorated denims are emerging from the closets of the flower children to the wardrobes of the middle and upper class as a new form of American folk art.

Stitchery, embroidery, beads, acrylic, feathers, sequins, buttons, tassles, patches, studs and rhinestones are adorning the latest in fancy pants and jazzy jeans.

"It is not confined to the barefoot lady madonnas living on brown rice and macrame," says Peter Beagle, author of "American Denim, a New Folk Art" — a pictorial of denim wear published by Harry N. Abrams, Inc. this month.

"In recent years, the rich and powerful have become almost compulsive about being seen in the traditional costumes of the variously rebellious, worn-out, penniless and freaky.

"It isn't just a matter of current chic: there is something plaintively haunting about photographs of people like Nelson A. Rockefeller, Elizabeth Taylor, Marlene Dietrich and Frank Sinatra wearing blue jeans and dungaree jackets."

A few years ago, decorated pants were just funk, exemplified by an appliqued heart on a blue denim sleeve — or more likely a posterior. Today the craftsmanship is highly sophisticated and individual.

Stitchery dinosaurs eat stitchery ferns on a pair of shorts while stitchery pterodactyls wing their way around the waist band.

An embroidered river of green satin flows from a purple embroidered sunset down the back of a jacket.

The careworn face of an American Indian is painted on a faded denim thigh with feathers at the seams.

An appliqued Eve on a pair of jeans plucks an appliqued apple from a stitchery tree; a black thread spider spins a sequined web on a pants leg; airbrushed iris flower over a soft faded pantsuit; a scoop of satin vanilla ice cream is topped with a red satin cherry on a jacket.

FLYING HOURS UP, ACCIDENTS DOWN

LOCK HAVEN, Pa. (AP) — American pilots are flying longer and farther these days but with fewer accidents, reports Piper Aircraft Corp. here. While the number of hours flown by general aviation aircraft — all business and pleasure planes, not commercial airliners — has increased nearly 100 per cent in the last 10 years, the number of fatal accidents per 100,000 flight hours decreased by 16 per cent.

Airplane miles traveled were also up by 78 per cent, and fatal accidents per million miles down by 8 per cent.

You may need a doctor.
You don't need the whole hospital.

You may not need an overnight stay. You may not even need a hospital bed.

The point is modern medicine has advanced. There are operations that don't even require hospitalization. The result is the bed you might have needlessly occupied is there for someone who needs it.

Everybody benefits, and everybody can help hold down the rising costs of health care—hospital and community leaders, doctors and patients.

For our part, we help by covering such developments as same-day operations in hospital surgical centers, home care programs, tests done in hospital outpatient departments, before you go into the hospital or even without being a hospital bed patient at all.

These are just some of the ways we're working with hospital and health care leaders to keep costs as reasonable as possible for everyone.

It's your money and we're trying to help you save it

Crucial Oklahoma-Nebraska battle set for Saturday

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Second-ranked Nebraska and No. 7 Oklahoma, both irked by the Sugar Bowl's snub of the Big Eight Conference, battle each other Saturday in a football game that will determine the championship and who goes to the Orange Bowl.

The contest will be played at Oklahoma. Nebraska is 6-0 in the conference and 10-0 overall. If the Huskers win or tie, they will lock up the league title and spend New Year's Day sparring with the loser of Saturday's game between No. 1 Ohio State and No. 4 Michigan.

If Oklahoma, 5-1 and 9-1, conquers Nebraska, the Sooners get the trip to the land of oranges and will share the championship with the Huskers. The loser has been invited to the Fiesta Bowl. Oklahoma has announced it would accept the Fiesta invitation but Nebraska wants the Orange Bowl or nothing.

Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl-bound Colorado, ranked ninth and 4-2 and 8-2, is host Saturday to Kansas State, 0-6 and 3-7. Missouri goes to Kansas, and the winner tackles Pittsburgh in the Sun Bowl. The Tigers are 3-3 and 6-4, having the same record as Kansas. Oklahoma State, 2-4 and 6-4, invades Iowa State, 1-5 and 4-6.

"Our players are looking forward to playing Oklahoma," says Nebraska Coach Tom Osborne. "We can't beat Oklahoma without playing a very sound and complete game ... offensively, defensively, kicking game."

Coach Barry Switzer of the Sooners insists this is "the best Nebraska team since 1971. I can't rank 'em with that team. They don't have a Johnny Rodgers but they have the Jeff Kinneys, who are more of the Steve Owens mold, who can six and seven-yard you to death."

Switzer regards Nebraska as "awesome on defense ... they have great quickness and speed. We're going to have to play the best we've played all year all of the game. We had a great first half last week at Missouri. Against Nebraska, we need two halves like that."

Colorado, certain of no worse than a tie for third and possibly second, should have little trouble with the crippled Wildcats, who have scored only one touchdown and only 16 points in their last seven games.

Missouri, ranked 18th, may have injured fullback John Blakeman ready for the Jayhawks, who hold the only victory over Oklahoma. The game may develop into a struggle between the passing of Missouri's Steve Pisarkiewicz and the running of Kansas' Nolan Cromwell and Laverne Smith.

Oklahoma State hasn't won at Iowa State since 1969 but Coach Jim Stanley notes that a victory by the Cowboys would "give us the most single season victories we'v ehad since 1958."

34 ROOKIES STARTED

NEW YORK (AP) — Thirty-four rookies gained starting positions in the National Football League this season among 208 first-year players. Among the starters this fall was Atlanta's quarterback Steve Bartkowski, the NFL number one draft choice.

SeMo State seeks to clinch MIAA title

CAPE GIRARDEAU — From conference doormat to king of the road. That's the rags to riches story of Southeast Missouri State University's football team.

Back on Oct. 5 the Indians of Coach Jim Lohr had the worst record of any team in the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association with no wins and four losses.

Today the Indians have reeled off six straight victories, they are unbeaten in conference action, and they are assured of at least a tie for the MIAA championship.

That assurance was gained Saturday (Nov. 15) when the Tribe downed Lincoln University in Jefferson City 39-7, setting the stage for a showdown this weekend when Northeast Missouri State University of Kirksville visits Houck Stadium.

The 1:30 p.m. encounter Saturday (Nov. 22) is a "must game for each team.

The Bulldogs under first-year-coach Ron Taylor have a 7-3 overall record, but they have lost one MIAA game. So, to gain a share of the crown, they must win the season finale, while the Indians must win to earn the title outright.

Coach Lohr said Monday that he felt rather good about having a share of the conference crown "in hand," but added, "We want to be greedy and have the whole thing to ourselves."

The Indian chief was generally well pleased with his team's performance against Lincoln. However, he commented that the defensive unit, even though it allowed only seven points, was still not as sharp as he would like it to be.

Earlier, according to Lohr, when the Indians were beginning to climb back from their disastrous start, the Tribe was playing much better defense than it has in the past two games.

Lincoln, whose record dipped to 3-6-1 after Saturday's loss, did a good job of holding the Tribe in check during the first half, allowing only 10 points. However, the Tigers let Southeast Missouri State have 17 points in the third quarter and 12 in the fourth stanza, and the Indians finished up with 306 yards rushing and 158 yards passing to a minus eight yards rushing and 106 yards passing for the Tigers.

The highlight of the contest was junior Mike Wood's 61-yard field goal, which opened Saturday's scoring. The kick by Wood, a junior from Kirkwood, eclipsed the University's old record of 54 yards which Wood established just a couple of weeks ago.

The collegiate record for field goal distance is 63 yards.

Asked about the 61-yard attempt which proved successful, Coach Lohr said, "I wouldn't have sent him in if I hadn't thought he could make it." The coach then added, "I don't have any doubt that he can kick a 70-yarder."

Cardinals will tackle NY Jets Sunday

NEW YORK, N.Y.--The St. Louis Football Cardinals try to keep undisputed possession of first place in the National Football Conference's Eastern Division Sunday when they return to Shea Stadium for the second time in a month to take on the New York Jets.

Kickoff is set for noon (CDT) with the game to be televised regionally by CBS and broadcast over the Cardinal radio network.

The Cardinals, who never played in Shea Stadium until this season, defeated the New York Giants, 20-13, there on October 25. This week's game marks only the second time the Big Red and Jets have met in regular season competition, with the Cardinals winning 17-10 in 1971 in St. Louis.

St. Louis will take a 7-2 record into the game and a one-game lead in the rugged NFC East over Dallas and Washington, both with 6-3 marks. The Big Red lived up to their billing as the cardiac Cardinals last week with a 20-17 overtime victory over the Redskins to give them sole control of first place.

It marked the third straight week the Cardinals have come from behind for a victory. On November 2, the Big Red trailed New England 17-7 in the third quarter but rebounded for a 24-17 victory, and a week later the Cardinals fell behind Philadelphia 23-7 in the third quarter but won, 24-23, on a 30-yard field goal by Jim Bakken on the final play of the game.

Against the Redskins, the Cardinals trailed 14-3 in the third quarter and 17-10 in the game's last five minutes before mounting another comeback effort. The Big Red gained a 17-17 tie with only 20 seconds remaining in regulation time, and on a fourth and goal situation, quarterback Jim Hart hit wide receiver Mel Gray with a six-yard touchdown pass.

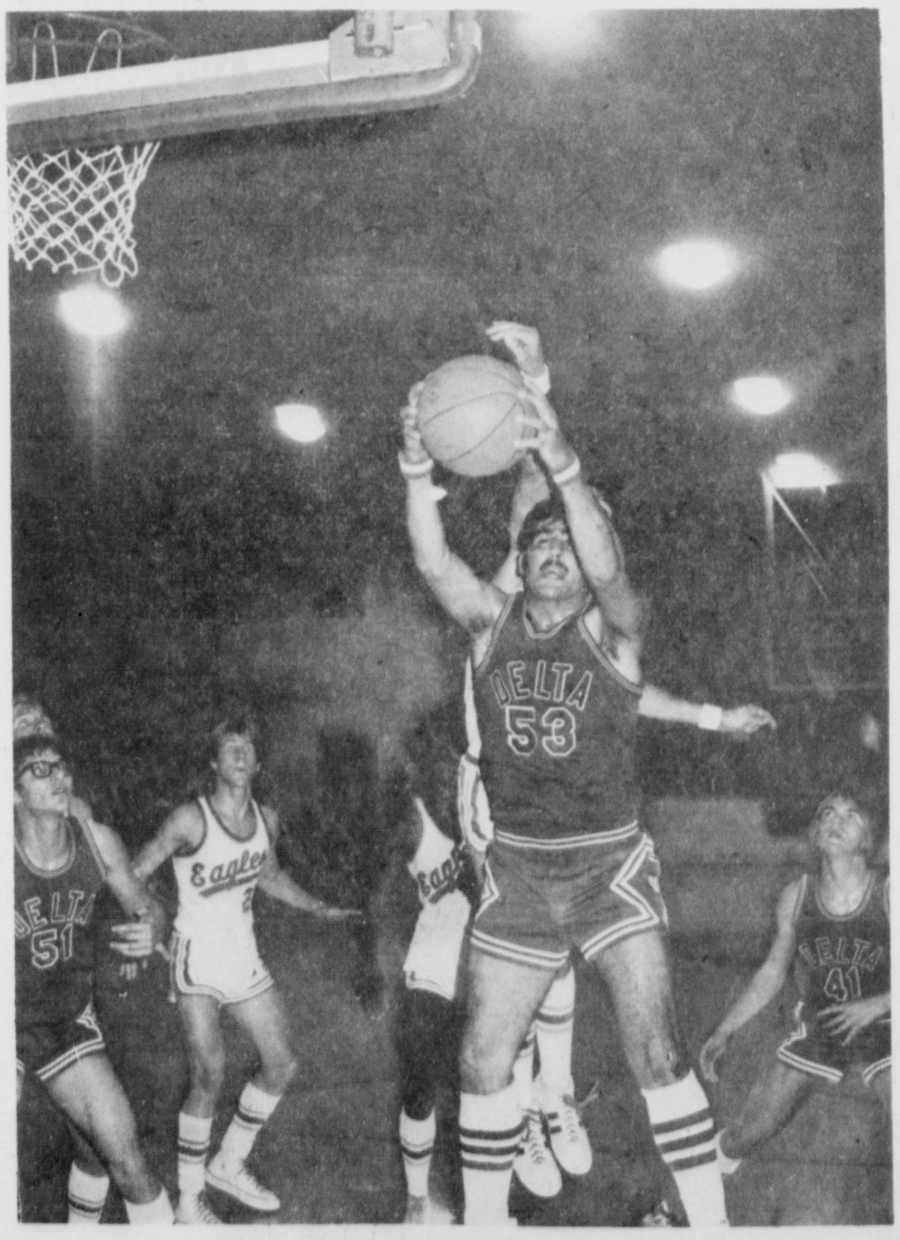

The Big Red won the overtime coin flip, and drove 55 yards in 11 plays to the Washington 20-yard line when Bakken entered the game and booted a 37-yard field goal through the uprights for the dramatic victory. It marked the third game Bakken has won for the Cardinals with a field goal.

The victory gave the Cardinals a 5-2 division record with only one division game remaining--at--home against Dallas on December 7. The Redskins, who still must play the Cowboys and Philadelphia, are 4-2 in division play, and Dallas, who still must play each division rival again, is 3-1.

Following the Jets' game, the Cardinals will stay in the AFC Eastern Division, and with only three days rest, take on the Buffalo Bills at 2:35 p.m. (CST) on Thanksgiving Day, November 27 in Busch Memorial Stadium.

Tickets remain on sale for the game, and the Cardinal Ticket Office will be open this Saturday and Sunday from 9 AM to 5 PM for the midweek game. Only single tickets remain for the Cardinals' final regular season home game on December 7 against Dallas.

The Big Red also announced that ticket prices for the 1976 season will remain the same as in 1975.

Second income can be pitfall

NEW YORK (AP) — Many American families fell into unexpected financial difficulty over the past two years because they came to rely upon a second income, often provided by a working wife, that was lost in the recession.

At one point the second income might have been used for luxuries, such as a vacation or home improvements, while the husband's income paid for the essentials of life.

As times got tougher, the second income became a necessity. More and more it went to support an established lifestyle. It financed needs rather than something extra.

The American Bankers Association found this practice high on the list of financial problems that plague many families today.

Other common difficulties, the ABA found, result from delays in seeking relief from creditors; assuming new loans to meet payments on existing ones; anticipating earnings that don't materialize; divorce, and the absence of emergency funds.

The following difficulties, and their causes, complete the list:

—UNWILLINGNESS TO CHANGE LIFE-STYLES. Some families are unwilling to lower their standard of living to compensate for lost income. Believing their setback to be temporary, they decide to ride it out.

In fact, for many families the belief that material conditions get better each year is the essential element in their interpretation of the American dream.

"These people come to financial counselors bewildered," said one respondent to an ABA survey of members and financial counselors.

The solutions are the obvious ones: more income or fewer expenditures.

—OVERESTIMATING RETIREMENT INCOME. Most retired Americans live on far less income than when they were working. For them, growing old means growing poor.

"Thirty-four per cent of all retired people live entirely on Social Security checks — they have no other income — and the average Social Security check for a retired couple today is just over $300 a month," the ABA says.

Even those who receive company pension income find their funds have diminished in value through inflation.

"Remember, if you need $1,000 a month to live today, in 10 years — if today's inflation continues — you'll need $2,000," the ABA observes.

—INDIFFERENCE TO BUDGETING. "Inflation clobbers these people because they have no way of measuring the true impact it has on their lives," the bankers say. "Because they don't keep records, such people don't realize that something that cost $1.10 years ago now costs $1.70.

—CARELESS ATTITUDE TOWARD MONEY AND CREDIT. Until a few years ago, it seems safe to say, most people in the years since World War II believed money and opportunity were on the upswing. As a consequcne, many families believed in spending now, worrying later.

Hearnes inquiry hears 16 months

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A Jefferson City banker and a former administrative assistant to the Missouri treasurer were among witnesses who appeared Wednesday before a grand jury investigating possible irregularities during the administration of Warren E. Hearnes.

Burleigh Arnold, vice-president and trust officer of the Central Trust Bank and Bill Gaines, the state officer, both had been called as witnesses previously.

The men would not discuss their testimony.

The grand jury has spent nearly 16 months investigating the Hearnes administration and the former governor's personal finances.

Other witnesses who appeared Wednesday were Altrus Wilder III, an employe of the Mercantile Trust Company of St. Louis; Roger Linsin of St. Louis, a member of the State Highway Commission; Dr. William C. Hayes, Springfie Mo., former state geologist and director of the Missouri Geological Survey, and Dr. Martin S. Greenberg, a St. Louis County dentist and former chairman of the St. Louis County Democratic Committee.

The British Parliament passed the stamp act which imposed heavy taxes on the colonies, March 22, 1765.

Cut your heating bill* this winter with ReInsul.™

ONLY 18½¢ SQ. FT.
REINSULATE A 900 SQ. FT. HOME FOR ONLY $130.50

If you don't have at least 6" of insulation in your attic, your home is probably underinsulated.

That's why Johns-Manville developed new ReInsul. It's the fiber glass insulation specially made for existing homes.

ReInsul is 5" thick and it's easy to install. Just find out how far apart your attic floor joists are and how many square feet you need.

Then buy the right amount of ReInsul and roll it out over the existing insulation, lightly pressing it into place between the attic floor joists.

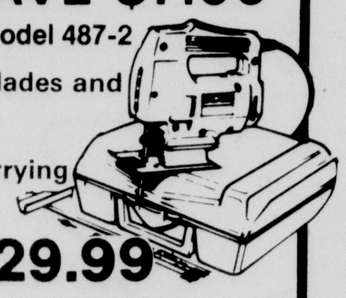

That's it! No stapling necessary. And no more worries about inadequate insulation.

(Another nice thing: ReInsul is packaged in clear poly bags so it's easy to carry in your car and easy to get through the opening to your attic.)

EAST PRAIRIE--Annie Eugenia Horton, 85, of 330 Wilburn St. died at 12:05 a.m. today at Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston, following an extended illness.

Born April 10, 1890 in Alabama, she was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jim Johnson. She was a member of the First Church of God.

On Dec. 28, 1912 she married L.L. Horton, who survives.

Also surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Leroy Givens of East Prairie; one son, Alton Horton of East Prairie; three sisters, Mrs. Tommy James and Mrs. Odie Kinley of Steele; and Mrs. Lottie Green of Columbus, S.C.; and four grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

The body is at Shelby Funeral Home where arrangements are incomplete.

Battery and CB stolen

An auto battery and a citizens band radio were reported stolen in separate thefts Wednesday, according to police.

A battery valued at $45 was taken from a car owned by Wanda Lewis, 1611 E. Kathleen Ave., between 12:30 p.m. and 9 p.m. while the car was parked in the parking lot of Kingsway Plaza Mall. A citizens band radio valued at $249 was taken from a car belonging to Myra Lumm, 520 W. Washington St., East Prairie, about 2:50 p.m., while the car was parked at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Zoning change recommended

The Planning and Zoning Commission recommended Wednesday that a strip of property along the east side of First Street between Wakefield and Smith streets be rezoned from single family to commercial.

The commission action came one day after the regularly scheduled meeting which took no action because of a lack of a quorum.

Committee recommends expanded rules power

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Expanded power for the state Administrative Hearing Commission to determine validity of administrative rules and a proposed constitutional amendment allowing legislative repeal of rules without the governor's signature were recommended today by a special state Senate committee.

In its final report filed with the secretary of the senate, the committee also recommended a number of minor changes and clarifications for a new state law that will go into effect Jan. 1 as well as the requirement that all proposed administrative rules be accompanied by an estimate of their financial impact on government and the general public.

The recommended changes, developed by the six-member panel after six hearings and testimony from 41 witnesses, will be put in the form of three bills and the proposed constitutional amendment for consideration by the legislature when it convenes in January.

Noting that the proposed legislative changes are intended to make state agencies with rule-making powers "more responsive to the will of the people," the report said the committee found instances where agencies were "ignoring the will of the people and letting non-elected rule makers determine what they believe to be in the people's best interest, rather than letting the people themselves decide."

During its review, the committee found 309 different laws that gave rule making power to 71 separate state agencies. While the panel, headed by Springfield Republican Paul Bradshaw, said it believed the new law approved during the last legislative session will solve many problems resulting from administrative rule making, it said the additonal changes in the process would further improve it.

The new law requires all proposed rules to be published by the secretary of state before they can take effect, sets up a system for public comment on proposed rules, creates a central compilation of all rules and regulations in effect and establishes a joint legislative committee to continually review rules as they are promulgated.

The proposed amendments to that measure are aimed at clarifying its provisions so the law can be more efficiently administered.

Expanded jurisdiction for the Administrative Hearing Commission, which is now limited to settling disputes in licensing cases, was recommended because "it is undesirable for administrative agencies to pass judgment on their own actions, as now is true in certain instances."

To go with the increased duties, the committee also recommended a boost in pay for the hearing commissioner.

The proposed change in the state constitution, which would require voter approval, is intended to give the legislature, which delegates rule-making powers to state agencies, the authority to revoke rules unilaterally if its finds them unacceptable.

In the past two sessions, the legislature has unsuccessfully attempted to include such a provision in laws delegating rule-making power either because Gov. Christopher S. Bond has vetoed the bills or the method used would have required Bond's approval of the repeal anyway.

"In view of the proliferation of rule-making, the committee believes that the General Assembly should be granted broader powers to exercise oversight authority concerning the rule-making functions it has delegated to the executive branch," the report said.

write a two-week termination notice for Pritchett, which he placed in an envelope and took to the packing department where Pritchett was working.

After handing him the envelope, Hubbard said Pritchett grabbed him by the shirt and began pushing him around. "He told me to hit him, and I told him no, turn me loose and I'll go back to the office and forget it," Hubbard said.

During the scuffle, Hubbard said he was pushed over some barrels. A cart with steel pipes was nearby and Hubbard said he picked one up while lying at a 45-degree angle and struck Pritchett once across the arm.

He further stated on direct questioning that he saw what he first thought was a blackjack and threw up his left arm, but was shot in the wrist and later in the back, in the right shoulder area, and then shot in the upper left shoulder from the front. Hubbard also said he heard the gun snap twice and was struck in the back of the head with the butt of the gun.

Hubbard reportedly then walked back to his office, where he was laid on a desk by employes before being taken to the hospital in Sikeston.

Pritchett, according to testimony, owns 25 per cent of the company stock, and his brother, Harley Pritchett Jr., owns 20 per cent. The remaining 55 per cent is owned by Hubbard and his wife.

Testimony by Hudson, Ditto and Steve McGill, employes of Stanley Muffler Co., indicated the two men had argued at some time prior to the shooting. None of the men saw the entire fight and subsequent shooting because they were in various parts of the plant when the fight began.

They did say they saw Hubbard hit Pritchett with a piece of steel pipe and identified a pipe entered by the defense which was approximately 30 inches long and two and a half inches in diameter as looking more like the right size than the pipe entered into evidence by the state, which was about 20 inches long and one and three-fourths inches in diameter.

The smaller pipe was identified by Hubbard as the size he used in striking Pritchett.

Self-defense was the basis for the defense of Pritchett, who testified in his own behalf. Other defense witnesses included Dr. T. P. Fenton of Charleston, who said he treated Pritchett the afternoon of Nov. 27 for multiple bruises to the back of his left shoulder, left rib cage and left elbow and arm; Albert Zilafro of East Prairie, a former employe of Stanley Muffler Co., who witnessed the fight from about five to six feet; H. H. Russell, Frank Carter and W. J. Morgan Sr. of East Prairie; and Elgin McMikle of Charleston, who each testified that Pritchett's reputation as a peaceful, non-violent, law-abiding and truthful person was good.

Pritchett, a bachelor, formerly school teacher and Marine, testified he was employed 21 years by McDonnell Douglas Aircraft in St. Louis as an administrative engineer before terminating his employment to come to East Prairie to work at Stanley Muffler Co.

According to his testimony, he was asked by Hubbard to invest money in the corporation when it was organized in 1971. He said he subscribed for 25 per cent of the stock at a cost of $12,500 early in 1971, brought equipment for the plant from St. Louis after working at McDonnell Douglas and worked weekends and during his vacation while construction of the company was under way.

He further said he had loaned the company about $50,000 prior to the shooting incident, which has not been repaid, and that he did not draw a salary from the company.

The relationship between the two men was good until January or February of 1974, according to Prtichett, who said Hubbard became cool toward him because he thought Pritchett had told his sister about his relationship with another woman. He also said he had voiced objections several occasions to Hubbard's spending of company money for bar bills, out-of-town trips and dog food and about his repeated intoxication.

Pritchett testified about three occasions in which Hubbard had made abusive and threatening remarks toward him. He said Hubbard had told him during their discussions about plant operations that he would run the company any way he wanted to and if he didn't like it, he could sell his stock and get out.

Testifying about the shooting, Pritchett said Hubbard brought an envelop to him that morning, pushed it toward him and said, "This is what you have been looking for and I'm going to give it to you to get rid of you."

The two began to scuffle, and Pritchett said he told Hubbard, "We can't have this; let's talk it out. I've got my life savings in the company and I'm not leaving.'"

He continued by saying he was scared for his life and thought that Hubbard was going to kill him. He also said he did not remember firing the gun and did not know that the bullets had struck Hubbard until told later by other employes.

Pritchett turned himself in at the East Prairie Police Department shortly after the shooting.

He is free on $5,000 bond, and a date for a new trial remains to be set.

5 injured in accidents

Five persons received minor injuries in three separate one-vehicle accidents Wednesday according to the state highway patrol.

At 11:45 a.m. 16 miles west of Doniphan on Highway 160, two Pontiac youths received minor injuries when Ricky Warden Blair, 17, lost control of his vehicle on a curve. The vehicle ran off the road and overturned.

Blair and a passenger, John Schultz, 18, were taken to Ripley County Hospital in Doniphan for treatment of minor injuries.

The driver of a pickup truck, James H. Miller, 36, and a passenger, Marie Myler, 51, both of Chaffee, received minor injuries in an accident at 12:55 p.m. one mile south of Chaffee on Highway 77 in Scott County.

The highway patrol said Miller's northbound vehicle skidded across the highway and struck an enbankment.

They were treated at Chaffee General Hospital and released.

David H. Powell, 69, of Kennett received minor injuries in a one-vehicle accident at 1:30 p.m. on Route P, 2.6 miles west of Senath.

The accident occurred when Powell turned his truck into a field road, and the truck missed the culvert and overturned on its side.

Trade school offering adult evening classes

MALDEN -- It has been announced that adult evening courses will be offered at Tri-County Trade and Technical School in Malden Industrial Park.

The areas of training to be offered are: machine shop and auto mechanics course for the ladies. Welding will not be offered at night this year because of the recent fire that damaged some of the facilities.

The course offerings are designed to supplement or upgrade the present skills and knowledge of individuals who are employed in - or their job is very closely related to the trade for which training is offered or for personal enrichment.

Enrollment will be taken at 7 p.m. Dec. 4.

The classes will meet one night per week. Three hours per night for 18 weeks and the cost per student will be $35. For further information, call the school director's office at telephone number 276-2487.

of Land and Water Conservation Funds from the U.S. Department of Interior's bureau of Outdoor Recreation.

The only other local areas to receive funds were Marston, $7,213 and Illmo-Scott City School District, $5,668.

Ayers. said development of Boon Park is expected to take the form of pavilions, picnic areas and tennis courts, but that he doesn't know when the city will receive word on whether or not the money is approved.

Plans also call for equipment to be purchased and located in the area at the West City Park where the road has been removed.

No work has been done on Boon Park because the board is waiting to see if the grant is approved, Ayers said. In the meantime, "we're just trying to improve what we have," he said.

Could you use four more exemptions on your Federal income taxes?

A husband and wife interested in a tax-deductible retirement program may now qualify for a Metropolitan Individual Retirement Annuity (IRA).

A working couple with no pension plan other than Social Security may each have a separate IRA and may both contribute up to the maximum based on their separate earnings: 15%, or up to $1,500—whichever is less. Together, they may annually contribute as much as $3,000 to their tax-sheltered retirement fund, if their earnings permit the maximum contribution by each.

And even if only a husband or wife is eligible, as a couple, they still enjoy added tax benefits with only one member of the family enrolled in an IRA.

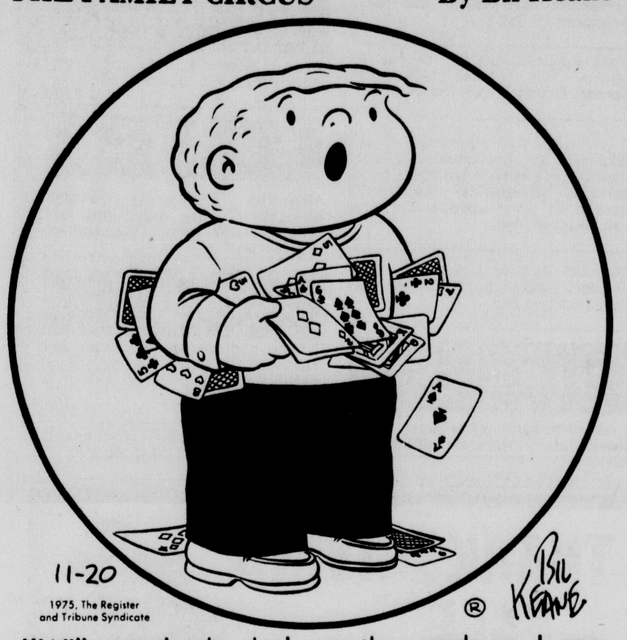

Call me if you're interested in discussing the possibility of the equivalent of two or four more exemptions on your Federal income tax.

Today in U.S. History

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, Nov. 20, the 324th day of 1975. There are 41 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1945, 24 Nazi leaders were put on trial before an international war crimes tribunal at Nuernberg, Germany.

On this date:

In 1818, the South American liberator, Simon Bolivar, declared Venezuela independent of Spain.

In 1870, German troops surrounded Paris during the Franco-Prussian War.

In 1893, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that the Great Lakes and their connecting waters were high seas.

In 1917, the World War I battle of Cambria began in France.

In 1942, the Alaska highway across Canada was formally opened.

In 1947, Princess Elizabeth of Britain married Lieutenant Philip Mountbatten in a ceremony at Westminster Abbey in London.

Ten years ago: Former President Dwight Eisenhower met with newsmen at Augusta, Ga., 10 days after a heart attack and said: "I feel just fine."

Five years ago: The death toll was put at more than 100 in a typhoon which swept the Philippines.

One year ago: President Ford ended a visit to Japan with a joint U.S.-Japanese declaration that the two countries would seek to strengthen economic cooperation.

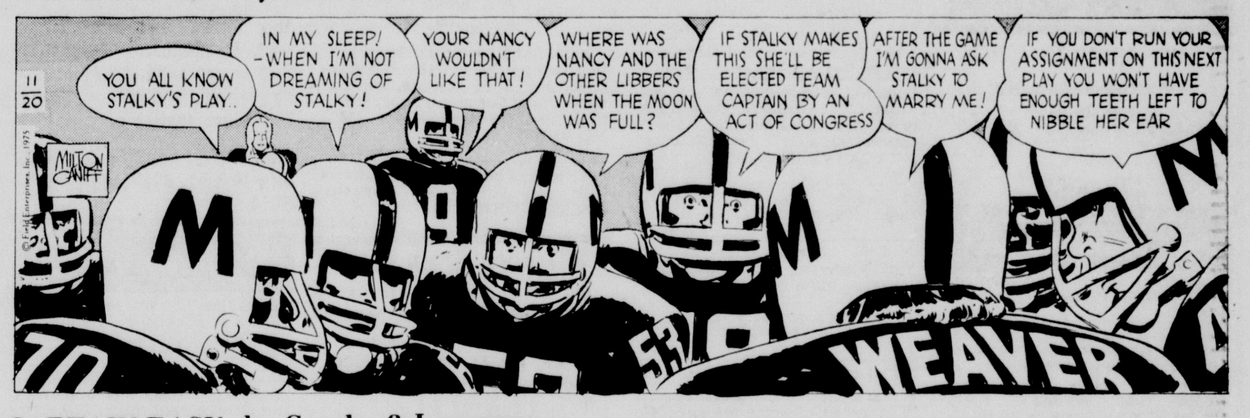

Today's birthday: Actress Gene Tierney is 55.

Thought for today: Words are the only things that last forever — William Hazlitt, English writer, 1778-1830.

Simon gets confused with money and singing

Rep. Paul Simon, that is.

For some time now, he's complained when newspaper readers scan only the headlines and wind up confusing his actions with those of Treasury Secretary William Simon.

Now students at Case Western Reserve University, planning a lecture series and hoping to hear the views of the Paul Simon who used to sing in the Simon and Garfunkel folk-rock duo, mailed a letter to Paul Simon of Carbondale, Ill., the congressman's home town.

Decorated denims emerging

By The Associated Press

Decorated denims are emerging from the closets of the flower children to the wardrobes of the middle and upper class as a new form of American folk art.

Stitchery, embroidery, beads, acrylic, feathers, sequins, buttons, tassles, patches, studs and rhinestones are adorning the latest in fancy pants and jazzy jeans.

"It is not confined to the barefoot lady madonnas living on brown rice and macrame," says Peter Beagle, author of "American Denim, a New Folk Art" — a pictorial of denim wear published by Harry N. Abrams, Inc. this month.

"In recent years, the rich and powerful have become almost compulsive about being seen in the traditional costumes of the variously rebellious, worn-out, penniless and freaky.

"It isn't just a matter of current chic: there is something plaintively haunting about photographs of people like Nelson A. Rockefeller, Elizabeth Taylor, Marlene Dietrich and Frank Sinatra wearing blue jeans and dungaree jackets."

A few years ago, decorated pants were just funk, exemplified by an appliqued heart on a blue denim sleeve — or more likely a posterior. Today the craftsmanship is highly sophisticated and individual.

Stitchery dinosaurs eat stitchery ferns on a pair of shorts while stitchery pterodactyls wing their way around the waist band.

An embroidered river of green satin flows from a purple embroidered sunset down the back of a jacket.

The careworn face of an American Indian is painted on a faded denim thigh with feathers at the seams.

An appliqued Eve on a pair of jeans plucks an appliqued apple from a stitchery tree; a black thread spider spins a sequined web on a pants leg; airbrushed iris flower over a soft faded pantsuit; a scoop of satin vanilla ice cream is topped with a red satin cherry on a jacket.

FLYING HOURS UP, ACCIDENTS DOWN

LOCK HAVEN, Pa. (AP) — American pilots are flying longer and farther these days but with fewer accidents, reports Piper Aircraft Corp. here. While the number of hours flown by general aviation aircraft — all business and pleasure planes, not commercial airliners — has increased nearly 100 per cent in the last 10 years, the number of fatal accidents per 100,000 flight hours decreased by 16 per cent.

Airplane miles traveled were also up by 78 per cent, and fatal accidents per million miles down by 8 per cent.

You may need a doctor.
You don't need the whole hospital.

You may not need an overnight stay. You may not even need a hospital bed.

The point is modern medicine has advanced. There are operations that don't even require hospitalization. The result is the bed you might have needlessly occupied is there for someone who needs it.

Everybody benefits, and everybody can help hold down the rising costs of health care—hospital and community leaders, doctors and patients.

For our part, we help by covering such developments as same-day operations in hospital surgical centers, home care programs, tests done in hospital outpatient departments, before you go into the hospital or even without being a hospital bed patient at all.

These are just some of the ways we're working with hospital and health care leaders to keep costs as reasonable as possible for everyone.

Second income can be pitfall

NEW YORK (AP) — Many American families fell into unexpected financial difficulty over the past two years because they came to rely upon a second income, often provided by a working wife, that was lost in the recession.

At one point the second income might have been used for luxuries, such as a vacation or home improvements, while the husband's income paid for the essentials of life.

As times got tougher, the second income became a necessity. More and more it went to support an established lifestyle. It financed needs rather than something extra.

The American Bankers Association found this practice high on the list of financial problems that plague many families today.

Other common difficulties, the ABA found, result from delays in seeking relief from creditors; assuming new loans to meet payments on existing ones; anticipating earnings that don't materialize; divorce, and the absence of emergency funds.

The following difficulties, and their causes, complete the list:

—UNWILLINGNESS TO CHANGE LIFE-STYLES. Some families are unwilling to lower their standard of living to compensate for lost income. Believing their setback to be temporary, they decide to ride it out.

In fact, for many families the belief that material conditions get better each year is the essential element in their interpretation of the American dream.

"These people come to financial counselors bewildered," said one respondent to an ABA survey of members and financial counselors.

The solutions are the obvious ones: more income or fewer expenditures.

—OVERESTIMATING RETIREMENT INCOME. Most retired Americans live on far less income than when they were working. For them, growing old means growing poor.

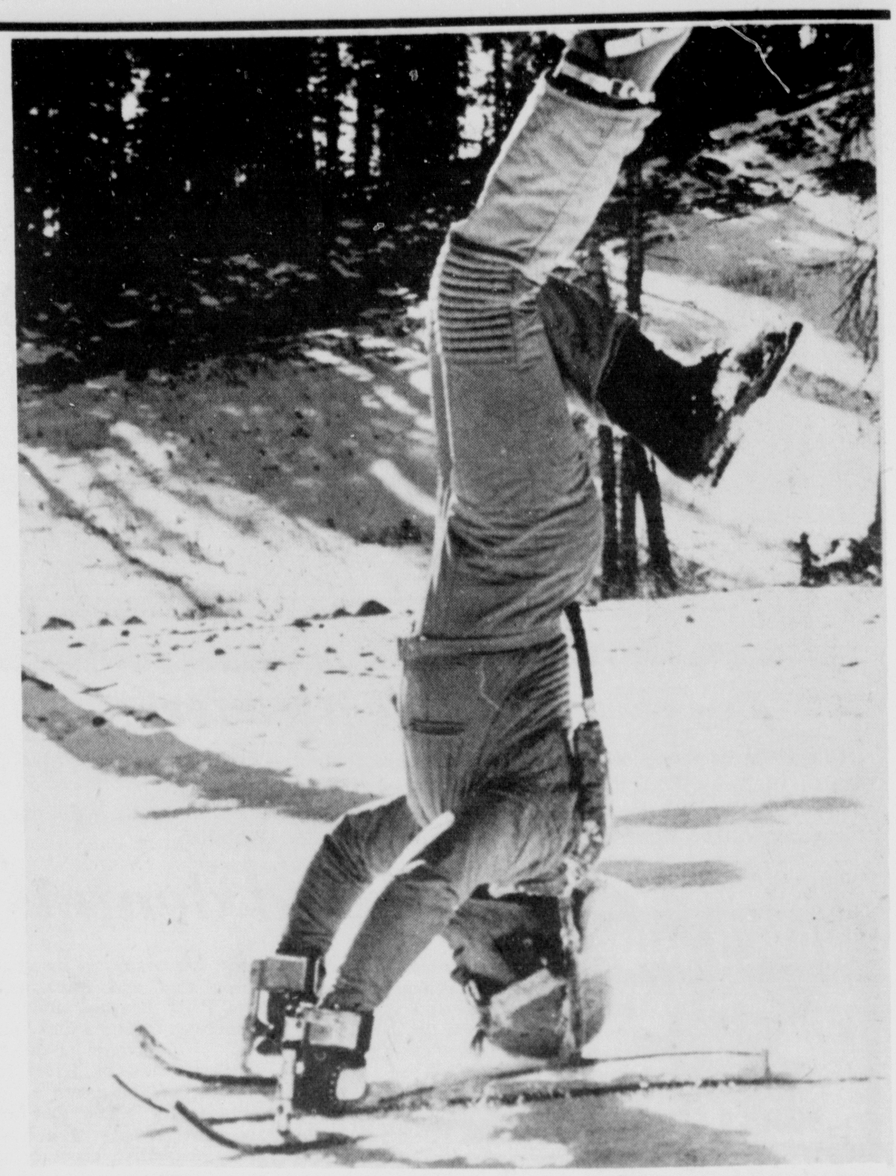

"Thirty-four per cent of all retired people live entirely on Social Security checks — they have no other income — and the average Social Security check for a retired couple today is just over $300 a month," the ABA says.

Even those who receive company pension income find their funds have diminished in value through inflation.

"Remember, if you need $1,000 a month to live today, in 10 years — if today's inflation continues — you'll need $2,000," the ABA observes.

—INDIFFERENCE TO BUDGETING. "Inflation clobbers these people because they have no way of measuring the true impact it has on their lives," the bankers say. "Because they don't keep records, such people don't realize that something that cost $1.10 years ago now costs $1.70.

—CARELESS ATTITUDE TOWARD MONEY AND CREDIT. Until a few years ago, it seems safe to say, most people in the years since World War II believed money and opportunity were on the upswing. As a consequcne, many families believed in spending now, worrying later.

Hearnes inquiry hears 16 months

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A Jefferson City banker and a former administrative assistant to the Missouri treasurer were among witnesses who appeared Wednesday before a grand jury investigating possible irregularities during the administration of Warren E. Hearnes.

Burleigh Arnold, vice-president and trust officer of the Central Trust Bank and Bill Gaines, the state officer, both had been called as witnesses previously.

The men would not discuss their testimony.

The grand jury has spent nearly 16 months investigating the Hearnes administration and the former governor's personal finances.

Other witnesses who appeared Wednesday were Altrus Wilder III, an employe of the Mercantile Trust Company of St. Louis; Roger Linsin of St. Louis, a member of the State Highway Commission; Dr. William C. Hayes, Springfield, Mo., former state geologist and director of the Missouri Geological Survey, and Dr. Martin S. Greenberg, a St. Louis County dentist and former chairman of the St. Louis County Democratic Committee.

The British Parliament passed the stamp act which imposed heavy taxes on the colonies, March 22, 1765.

Cut your heating bill* this winter with ReInsul.™

ONLY 18½¢ SQ. FT.
REINSULATE A 900 SQ. FT. HOME FOR ONLY $130.50

If you don't have at least 6" of insulation in your attic, your home is probably underinsulated.

That's why Johns-Manville developed new ReInsul. It's the fiber glass insulation specially made for existing homes.

ReInsul is 5" thick and it's easy to install. Just find out how far apart your attic floor joists are and how many square feet you need.

Then buy the right amount of ReInsul and roll it out over the existing insulation, lightly pressing it into place between the attic floor joists.

That's it! No stapling necessary. And no more worries about inadequate insulation.

(Another nice thing: ReInsul is packaged in clear poly bags so it's easy to carry in your car and easy to get through the opening to your attic.)

*Assuming all other conditions remain constant from year to year.

Today in U.S. History

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, Nov. 20, the 324th day of 1975. There are 41 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1945, 24 Nazi leaders were put on trial before an international war crimes tribunal at Nuernberg, Germany.

On this date:

In 1818, the South American liberator, Simon Bolivar, declared Venezuela independent of Spain.

In 1870, German troops surrounded Paris during the Franco-Prussian War.

In 1893, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that the Great Lakes and their connecting waters were high seas.

In 1917, the World War I battle of Cambria began in France.

In 1942, the Alaska highway across Canada was formally opened.

In 1947, Princess Elizabeth of Britain married Lieutenant Philip Mountbatten in a ceremony at Westminster Abbey in London.

Ten years ago: Former President Dwight Eisenhower met with newsmen at Augusta, Ga., 10 days after a heart attack and said: "I feel just fine."

Five years ago: The death toll was put at more than 100 in a typhoon which swept the Philippines.

One year ago: President Ford ended a visit to Japan with a joint U.S.-Japanese declaration that the two countries would seek to strengthen economic cooperation.

Today's birthday: Actress Gene Tierney is 55.

Thought for today: Words are the only things that last forever — William Hazlitt, English writer, 1778-1830.

Some exiled wealthy; some poor

EDITOR'S NOTE: They were the ruling elite of Saigon for a decade. Then the Communists took over. In the second of two articles on the rich and powerful of South Vietnam, AP Special Correspondent Peter Arnett writes of the life of sudden exile for South Vietnam's privileged senior officials and generals.

By PETER ARNETT
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some South Vietnamese were more than ready for the collapse.

Gen. Trang Si Tan moved enough money abroad during his two years as Saigon's police chief to seriously consider several big business deals, including buying an old aircraft carrier for scrap metal and purchasing a Holiday Inn hotel at San Diego.

Some waited until the last minute.

A former corps commander and chief of staff of the army cleared his safe deposit boxes just a few hours before he left Saigon. He arrived at Fort Chaffee, Ark., with a million dollars in large bills in a suitcase. His young mistress ran off with the suitcase and a young lover, and the general spent a month in a military psychiatric ward while his friends tried unsuccessfully to get the money back.

Some reacted too late.

Several wealthy generals invested heavily in property in Vietnam, like the former vice president and air chief, Marshall Nguyen Cao Ky, who lost five tractors and other farm machinery when the Communists overran his 2,500-acre property in the Central Highlands. Ky said he brought out "only" $40,000 in cash.

Then there were those senior Vietnamese who arrived with nothing because they had nothing.

Three-star general Dong Van Khuyen, the last chief of staff of the South Vietnamese army, found work as a $180-a-week waiter at a seafood restaurant at Yorktown, Va. He sometimes serves U.S. military officers who used to advise him on running the 1.1 million-man Vietnamese armed forces.

The quality of the lives of Vietnamese officials in exile in America has come as no surprise to U.S. officials familiar with the Vietnam scene.

"The U.S. Embassy was always well aware about who was making big money in Saigon and who was relatively honest," said one official handling the refugee resettlement program in Washington D.C. "We went along with Vietnamese corruption as the price we paid for their loyalty."

None are surprised that while the last president of Vietnam, Nguyen Van Thieu, flits between his handsome homes in Taipei, London and the south of France, the last president of Cambodia, Saukam Khoy, ekes out a modest existence with his son in Austin, Tex.

While former Vietnamese Vice Premier Nguyen Luu Vien, a physician, struggles at the University of Oklahoma at Norman, Okla., to be licensed to practice in America; the prime minister, Tran Thien Khiem, now a resident of Taipei, tries to decide which western country to settle in to better manage his business enterprises. He would prefer the U.S., his friends say, but only if he could move in quietly.

Some of the wealthier exiled generals — a total of 116 were evacuated from Saigon — are similarly concerned about adverse publicity and are trying to maintain a low profile.

They were shocked by the case of Gen. Dang Van Quang, a former corps commander in Vietnam who was fired for blatant corruption in the late 60s, and then returned to power as one of President Thieu's closest aides and reputed bag man. Quang was denied residence in the United States, and is currently fighting a deportation order from Canada.

Some generals linked with Quang in the past are discreetly settling in. But the wealth shines through. Gen. Cao Van Vien, formerly chief of the general staff headquarters in Saigon, whose wife was notorious in Saigon for her business dealings, purchased an $80,000 home in Virginia for a quiet retirement. His son, Cao Anh Dung, went public by soliciting gold from Vietnamese refugees, offering a higher price than Deak and Co Inc., the international money exchange, banking and investment concern.

Madame Vien's younger brother, Lt. Col. Tran Ngoc Tran, also living in Virginia, began driving a black Mercedes soon after arriving in the Washington D.C. area.

A close political adviser to President Thieu, Hoang Duc Nha, has invested around $100,000 on a home and store specializing in oriental goods in Arlingon, Va. Thieu had to fire Nha, his nephew, because of his unpopularity in Saigon, and Vietnamese living in the Washington area say they are boycotting his store.

Nha tells friends he doesn't care because all his business is from Americans living in the neighboring apartment buildings.

Not all the senior Vietnamese are living a life of luxury in the United States.

Gen. Pham Van Dong, onetime commander of the capital military district and a minister for veterans affairs, had two military aides in Saigon, three maids for his wife and five children, a cook, and three guards. Today in Arlington, Va., he drives his children to school himself while his wife does the housework, and lives "on a little money I put away."

Former corps commander Gen. Nguyen Van Minh lives rent-free in an apartment provided by a church group in New York's West 99th street, and earns enough "to live in dignity" in the accounting department of a New York trade book publisher. Minh's luxurious home in downtown Saigon had walls covered with jade-inlaid lacquer paintings, and rooms furnished with mother-of-pearl inlaid chairs and tables.

Other generals formerly with power and influence are reduced now to ordinary pursuits.

Other generals are unemployed. Gen. Tran Van Minh, last commander of South Vietnam's air force, and now living near Sacramento, Calif., says he will take "almost any job." Brig. Gen. Pha Hoa Hiep, formerly a tank brigade commander, and minister of information shortly before Saigon fell, is living on food stamps at Ocola, Fla.

The last commander of the South Vietnamese navy moved into the basement of the home of the former chief of U.S. naval operations Elmo Zumwalt.

Some exiled wealthy; some poor

EDITOR'S NOTE: They were the ruling elite of Saigon for a decade. Then the Communists took over. In the second of two articles on the rich and powerful of South Vietnam, AP Special Correspondent Peter Arnett writes of the life of sudden exile for South Vietnam's privileged senior officials and generals.

By PETER ARNETT
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some South Vietnamese were more than ready for the collapse.

Gen. Trang Si Tan moved enough money abroad during his two years as Saigon's police chief to seriously consider several big business deals, including buying an old aircraft carrier for scrap metal and purchasing a Holiday Inn hotel at San Diego.

Some waited until the last minute.

A former corps commander and chief of staff of the army cleared his safe deposit boxes just a few hours before he left Saigon. He arrived at Fort Chaffee, Ark., with a million dollars in large bills in a suitcase. His young mistress ran off with the suitcase and a young lover, and the general spent a month in a military psychiatric ward while his friends tried unsuccessfully to get the money back.

Some reacted too late.

Several wealthy generals invested heavily in property in Vietnam, like the former vice president and air chief, Marshall Nguyen Cao Ky, who lost five tractors and other farm machinery when the Communists overran his 2,500-acre property in the Central Highlands. Ky said he brought out "only" $40,000 in cash.

Then there were those senior Vietnamese who arrived with nothing because they had nothing.

Three-star general Dong Van Khuyen, the last chief of staff of the South Vietnamese army, found work as a $180-a-week waiter at a seafood restaurant at Yorktown, Va. He sometimes serves U.S. military officers who used to advise him on running the 1.1 million-man Vietnamese armed forces.

The quality of the lives of Vietnamese officials in exile in America has come as no surprise to U.S. officials familiar with the Vietnam scene.

"The U.S. Embassy was always well aware about who was making big money in Saigon and who was relatively honest," said one official handling the refugee resettlement program in Washington D.C. "We went along with Vietnamese corruption as the price we paid for their loyalty."

None are surprised that while the last president of Vietnam, Nguyen Van Thieu, flits between his handsome homes in Taipei, London and the south of France, the last president of Cambodia, Saukam Khoy, ekes out a modest existence with his son in Austin, Tex.

While former Vietnamese Vice Premier Nguyen Luu Vien, a physician, struggles at the University of Oklahoma at Norman, Okla., to be licensed to practice in America; the prime minister, Tran Thien Khiem, now a resident of Taipei, tries to decide which western country to settle in to better manage his business enterprises. He would prefer the U.S., his friends say, but only if he could move in quietly.

Some of the wealthier exiled generals — a total of 116 were evacuated from Saigon — are similarly concerned about adverse publicity and are trying to maintain a low profile.

They were shocked by the case of Gen. Dang Van Quang, a former corps commander in Vietnam who was fired for blatant corruption in the late 60s, and then returned to power as one of President Thieu's closest aides and reputed bag man. Quang was denied residence in the United States, and is currently fighting a deportation order from Canada.

Some generals linked with Quang in the past are discreetly settling in. But the wealth shines through. Gen. Cao Van Vien, formerly chief of the general staff headquarters in Saigon, whose wife was notorious in Saigon for her business dealings, purchased an $80,000 home in Virginia for a quiet retirement. His son, Cao Anh Dung, went public by soliciting gold from Vietnamese refugees, offering a higher price than Deak and Co Inc., the international money exchange, banking and investment concern.

Madame Vien's younger brother, Lt. Col. Tran Ngoc Tran, also living in Virginia, began driving a black Mercedes soon after arriving in the Washington D.C. area.

A close political adviser to President Thieu, Hoang Duc Nha, has invested around $100,000 on a home and store specializing in oriental goods in Arlingon, Va. Thieu had to fire Nha, his nephew, because of his unpopularity in Saigon, and Vietnamese living in the Washington area say they are boycotting his store.

Nha tells friends he doesn't care because all his business is from Americans living in the neighboring apartment buildings.

Not all the senior Vietnamese are living a life of luxury in the United States.

Gen. Pham Van Dong, onetime commander of the capital military district and a minister for veterans affairs, had two military aides in Saigon, three maids for his wife and five children, a cook, and three guards. Today in Arlington, Va., he drives his children to school himself while his wife does the housework, and lives "on a little money I put away."

Former corps commander Gen. Nguyen Van Minh lives rent-free in an apartment provided by a church group in New York's West 99th street, and earns enough "to live in dignity" in the accounting department of a New York trade book publisher. Minh's luxurious home in downtown Saigon had walls covered with jade-inlaid lacquer paintings, and rooms furnished with mother-of-pearl inlaid chairs and tables.

Other generals formerly with power and influence are reduced now to ordinary pursuits.

Other generals are unemployed. Gen. Tran Van Minh, last commander of South Vietnam's air force, and now living near Sacramento, Calif., says he will take "almost any job." Brig. Gen. Pha Hoa Hiep, formerly a tank brigade commander, and minister of information shortly before Saigon fell, is living on food stamps at Ocola, Fla.

The last commander of the South Vietnamese navy moved into the basement of the home of the former chief of U.S. naval operations Elmo Zumwalt.
